Keyfort services its customers, based in the British Isles with the occasional branch offices abroad, from its two offices - Bournemouth in the south and Hull in the North.

All customers are assigned an account manager who will work with them to understand requirements, propose solution, engage Keyfort's operations team and provide an ongoing business contact in addition to Keyfort's technical support services.

Keyfort has been delivering IT engineering excellence for the benefit of the customers since 2000 and is proud of its links with the University of Hull and Bournemouth University
