

HEDONISTIC HIKING

FOOD • WINE • WALKING

2019

All-inclusive guided gourmet walking holidays in Italy and beyond...

Food. Wine. Walks.

In 2007, our enthusiasm for delicious food, fine wine and great walking gave rise to Hedonistic Hiking and, for over ten years, we have shared these passions with our guests. Our small group, guided hiking holidays travel across a growing number of Italy's most striking landscapes, crossing its borders into France, Slovenia and Austria.

Alongside some spectacular hiking, we set out to give our guests an insight into the region's gastronomy, its wine and its cultural heritage. We meet with food and wine experts, test and taste local produce, enjoy al fresco picnics and stay in boutique, family-run accommodation.

We are always thrilled when our guests come back to experience another tour – and well over half of our guests do. If this is your first introduction to Hedonistic Hiking, we hope the following information addresses some of your queries.

How long are the walks?

Each of the individual tour pages features the distances for the shortest and longest days, ranging from 6 km up to 20.5 km. Our tour grading system takes into account the terrain, altitude and levels of ascent or descent on a given day. There is also a support vehicle on hand so that guests can choose to walk as much or as little as they please.

What is the average age of the hikers?

Most of our guests are in the 50-70 age range, although we have welcomed hikers in their 80s and in their 30s. Hedonistic Hikers come from English-speaking countries all over the world, so the groups are an interesting mix of friendly, like-minded travellers.

What if I am travelling on my own?

Our tours are made up of solo travellers, couples and small groups of friends. Mealtimes are relaxed, convivial affairs and are ideal for anyone who enjoys sharing wonderful meals and sparkling conversation! All solo travellers are allocated their own double rooms, subject to a nominal single supplement.

How fit do I need to be?

If you are active and enjoy walking, you can choose from a wide range of tours. Our grading system will give you a better idea of the most appropriate tour for your fitness level and clearly indicates the most challenging hikes. To help raise fitness levels before your holiday, visit our website for tips on building strength and useful stretches in addition to choosing the right clothing and equipment.

Who leads the groups?

We are an Anglo-Australian Italian-speaking husband and wife team, and one of us leads every tour. Living much of the year in Italy means we design and research the finite details of every tour ourselves, which ensures that our guests have the best possible experience. We are supported by a small team of dedicated and extremely knowledgeable colleagues who help with logistics.

What is included?

- Accommodation in atmospheric hand-picked hotels
- Support and local knowledge of two experienced guides
- All meals matched with fine local wines
- Gourmet picnic lunches
- Dinners at superb local restaurants
- A support vehicle at all times (except one or two high mountain days)
- Transport to/from the start and end of the holiday
- Comprehensive pre-trip information
- Luggage transported so all you need to carry is a small backpack
- Museum visits, cooking classes and wine tastings as per each individual itinerary

Our tours are genuinely all-inclusive, excluding the flight. Our customer feedback rates us excellent in terms of value for money.

What's new for 2019?

Be the first to hike our newest route in the mountains of Piedmont! The tour will run just once in June, it starts and finishes in Turin and explores four stunning high alpine valleys rich in Piemontese history and culture. This is challenging but rewarding hiking matched with the unparalleled food and wines of the Piedmont region.

If you share our passion for food, wine and walking then we hope to welcome you on a tour very soon!

Which hike to choose?

The individual tour pages on our website give a detailed description of each itinerary and information about the walking. Below we have attempted to rate the tours in terms of difficulty, from Level 5 being the most challenging, down to Level 1 being the least. We have taken into account the amount of ascent/descent each day, the type of terrain and the length of each day in time and distance. The weather and altitude will also have an effect on the ease/difficulty of the hikes. If you have any concerns about the hiking please do get in touch – we lead the tours ourselves so know the trails first-hand and can give individual advice about which tour we think would suit you best. We like to include some challenging hikes on all the tours but you will find these are balanced with more leisurely days. On all tours we have a support vehicle which meets us at lunch (there are a few exceptions in the mountains when there is no vehicle access and we carry a hike-in picnic) so there is the opportunity to walk a shorter day if required.

What will you need to bring?

Footwear

The most important thing is your footwear. We recommend a strong pair of waterproof walking boots with good ankle support, and these could be leather or a more modern lightweight waterproof fabric boot. It is essential to "wear in" your boots before embarking on the full week's walking holiday.

Clothing

The best advice for clothing is to wear layers. Modern high-tec fabrics for shirts and walking trousers are windproof but also very quick drying and two walking shirts in this fabric should be sufficient for a week. On top of the shirt a fleece will keep you warm - especially as temperatures can change swiftly according to altitude and wind chill factors. For hikes in the mountains we recommend a long-sleeved thermal vest/shirt. Walking trousers with zip-off bottoms which become shorts are extremely useful. A good quality waterproof jacket eg Gore-Tex with a hood is essential - the fabric is breathable as well as being watertight. Waterproof over-trousers might also be considered.

Hats and Sunglasses

A broad brimmed hat to shade your face from hot sun is very important and, if you are walking in mountains, you need to bring a fleece or wool hat and gloves. Sunglasses to protect your eyes from the glare are another essential. We have our own range of branded hats and head bands which you can find on our website and buy from us on tour.

Walking Poles

Two strong lightweight poles can greatly improve your stability and reduce wear and tear on your muscles and joints. The best ones are made of carbon fibre but all poles should have comfortable cork handles with adjustable wrist straps. Poles are essential for the mountain hiking days in Abruzzo, Slovenia, Piedmont, Italian Alps, Southern Italy, the Italian Lakes, France and Italy and Austria and the Dolomites - as well as on Australian tours. It is worth noting that Leki makes a compact version of poles to fit the smallest of suitcases.

Day Pack

We recommend a lightweight back pack, with capacity of approximately 20 litres, to hold your water bottle, extra layers of clothing, a camera and sunscreen and insect repellent. The most comfortable ones sit away from your back to allow a flow of air between you and the pack. In all cases it is a good idea to carry a large plastic bag to line the day pack and help to waterproof it, unless your back pack has a built-in waterproof cover.

Water Bottle

We give you BPA-free water bottles on the Italian tours, as this helps to reduce the needless waste of plastic. Other people like to use platypus water carriers worn in the back pack with the drinking tube. If you are joining a tour in Australia you will need to bring your own water bottle.
