Susanne is Director of the Centre for Interprofessional Practice and Senior Lecturer in Interprofessional Practice. Her responsibilities include delivery and evaluation of Interprofessional Learning (IPL) delivered by the Centre. Susanne and her team carry out research associated with interprofessional education, and her own particular interests in this area focus around interprofessional attitudes and effective facilitation of IPL.

Further to delivering IPL to undergraduate students, Susanne also works with professionals and teams in the practice setting to help them manage change, and optimise their current communication and collaborative practice.
