The £500,000 dust problem.

And it's in your business right now.

Dust and dirt causes businesses downtime. And this downtime can cost anything from £50,000 to £500,000 an hour.

Proper cleaning of your computer room and equipment can help prevent this.

So ask yourself: can you really afford not to have an environmental cleaning programme?

70% of hardware & storage failures are caused by environmental factors such as humidity, room temperature, dirt, zinc whiskers and debris. Not correctly dealing with this equals downtime, which can cost businesses anything from £50,000 to £500,000 an hour.

But it can easily be prevented through regular professional cleaning.

Why clean regularly?
There are key, tangible benefits this can bring to your business, such as improving the reliability of your equipment, extending the life of your hardware, optimum productivity from your staff and equipment and reduced operation and maintenance costs. There are also the obvious working environment benefits for your staff too.

How we are different
Computer cleaning and office cleaning are very different, as is the training and competency of the staff. Similarly the techniques, disciplines, equipment and materials used when cleaning PCs and Computer equipment are NOT the same as those used in office cleaning.

Our professional staff are trained specifically for this type of work, i.e. data sensitive and IT dependent areas and will highlight any potential hazards such as cable damage, rodent damage, water ingress, etc. The day-to-day running of your organisation will remain unaffected whilst the clinical clean and anti static treatments are in progress.

What do we clean?
We thoroughly clean the data centre / computer room environment including:

- Floors & sub floors
- All ceiling aspects – tiles, voids, ducts, etc.
- Air conditioning units
- Cabinets, racks and enclosures
- All entry points, walls and doors

How often should it be cleaned?
How frequently the environment that houses your mission critical services should be cleaned could be anything from daily to annually. We'll review the requirements and advise the most appropriate frequency that's right for your business and schedule cleans can be carried out to fit around your requirements.
