We have in recent years been able to export the skills and expertise we have developed in the healthcare, education and commercial fields, through a planned business expansion into the Middle East.

Focused specifically at Saudi Arabia and Kurdistan, we secured our first major commission a 300 bed teaching hospital just north of Riyadh in 2012 (working with local partners Saud Consult) and have developed proposals for a range of other schemes, including a new conference centre in Erbil and a masterplan for a University campus in Chian.

In 2014, we established a joint venture company TODD Van Dijk International, and were successful in being appointed to the Royal Commission of Jubail, in Saudi Arabia where we will be delivering a number of major infrastructure projects in the region over the next few years.
