

CASE STUDY

JCW Acoustic Supplies

February 2015

Ainscough Mill, Burscough

In 1814, Richard Ainscough (the elder) 1770-1849, came to Parbold, and with the help of his father (Hugh Ainscough of Mawdesley), started as a grocer and took over the village windmill. This was the foundation of the family firm of H. & R. Ainscough.

Burscough Mill is a former steam powered corn mill. The mill was developed by Hugh Ainscough in 1855. It was strategically sited next to the Leeds Liverpool canal and the Liverpool to Preston railway. It demonstrates the scale and detailing of a mid-late 19th century industrial milling complex.

Later it was owned by Allied Mills. The Mill finally closed in 1998 and was purchased by Persimmon Homes as part of a redevelopments plan to convert the building into Mill apartments.

<http://www.persimmonhomes.com/ainscough-mill-10265>

Semi-rural living at its best.....

Ainscough Mill is a brand new collection of 56 one and two bedroom apartments, boasting traditional architectural styling with contemporary apartment living. Enjoying a village location whilst remaining well connected, this grand building stands proudly in the beautiful village of Burscough adjacent to the picturesque Leeds Liverpool canal

Ainscough Mill, Burscough - before and after

Trouble at' mill

In March 2014, there was a huge fire at the mill.

The blaze at the former flour mill that was being transformed into modern flats, completely gutted the property. Lancashire Fire and Rescue said over 50 firefighters fought the blaze for more than five hours.

Doomed or not!

JCW Acoustic Supplies have started to supply materials to Persimmon Homes via Jewson, as of 17th Feb 2015.

JCW Acoustic Supplies

Supplying JCW Deck 33 - a whopping 5000m².

Looking Pretty

Luxury flats in a historic building.

Wonderful views.

Semi-rural living at its best.

Contact Us: Tel: 0845 340 2858

Email: sales@acoustic-supplies.com

Unit 32-34 Waters Meeting Development, Britannia Way, Bolton, BL2 2HH