Bring your group to experience the beauty and wonder of Bowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve. Discover the living collection of native plants and the web of life they support. Signature group tours are led by knowledgeable staff and Naturalists and are available seasonally.

THE WONDER OF WILDFLOWERS

From a carpet of spring ephemerals to the amazing asters of fall, few places can rival the natural beauty at Bowman's Hill Wildflower Preserve. Seasonal walks are filled with facts and folklore to highlight the best of each season.

MEADOW MAGIC

Amidst a sea of waving green grasses, native bees and butterflies gather nectar or pollen from milkweeds, mints, bonesets and coneflowers. Take a guided tour of our five-acre meadow to learn about meadow ecology and plant-pollinator interactions.

BIRDS & BLOOMS

Known as a "birding hotspot," the Preserve's diversity of plants and habitats supports a large variety of birds. From migrants to summer nesters to birds that stay year-round, learn about our feathered friends and the flora that sustains them.

FANTASTIC FERNS

The Preserve is home to one of the finest collections of native ferns and their allies. Come discover their rich, natural history and their unique life cycle.

FALL FOLIAGE

The autumn season brings many changes, but none are more spectacular than this: billions of leaves are turning from green to auburn and gold. Journey through our woods and experience the spectacular colors of fall.
