Calidad Slate

The Calidad range from JRC offers pleasing aesthetics as well as un-matched functionality. Sourced exclusively from the renowned slate quarries of Spain, this range is brought to you proudly by JRC. We supply only to roofing slate merchants, and our increased control over availability translates into increased availability for our chosen partners.

All our slates are tested rigorously to British and European Standard BS EN 12326.

We take great pains to ensure the quality of all the slate that we supply. All our slates are tested rigorously to British and European Standard BS EN 12326. We're proud of the fact that all our Calidad slate achieves the highest classification possible under that Standard, and are all A1, S1 and T1.

Calidad slates are exceptionally versatile, and can perform admirably in any setting. These slates are highly weather-resistant, which makes them ideally suited to the UK market. They are also fire and pollution resistant, so they perform much better in conditions such as acid rain than other roofing products, offering architects and specifiers greater peace of mind.

Our Calidad slate is also highly environmentally-friendly. Our natural roofing slate goes through almost no processing, unlike man-made fibre cement and concrete tiles, and as a consequence it has a much smaller carbon footprint. These green credentials offer great peace of mind all our stockists.

We're not the only ones confident in the quality of our slate – with a quarry-backed guarantee across our Calidad range, all our merchant partners can rest assured that they've purchased a top-notch product. When fitted in accordance with BS 5534, these slates will perform year after year. These slates are exceptionally easy to sort and grade, as they are selected for their flat, even qualities. This makes for an easier job for installers, adding value to the slate offered by our stockists.
