

Benzene and Styrene Service

The PCI Wood Mackenzie benzene and styrene service enables you truly to understand the market outlook. Examine production costs and profitability, and recognise pricing and demand patterns before your competitors. Build exceptional procurement and trading strategies and test internal views with our proprietary modelling tools.

Get insight on the commercial and strategic drivers of benzene and styrene supply and demand, with our proprietary data, price forecasts and trade data.

Use it to:

- Examine the outlook on production costs and profitability for benzene, styrene and key feedstocks
- Recognise and understand price drivers
- Understand the supply/demand outlook both globally and regionally
- Identify inter-regional trade patterns and arbitrage opportunities
- Assess the impacts of plant outages, supply restrictions, technology changes and other factors
- Identify investment opportunities and manage risk in the commodity chemical markets.

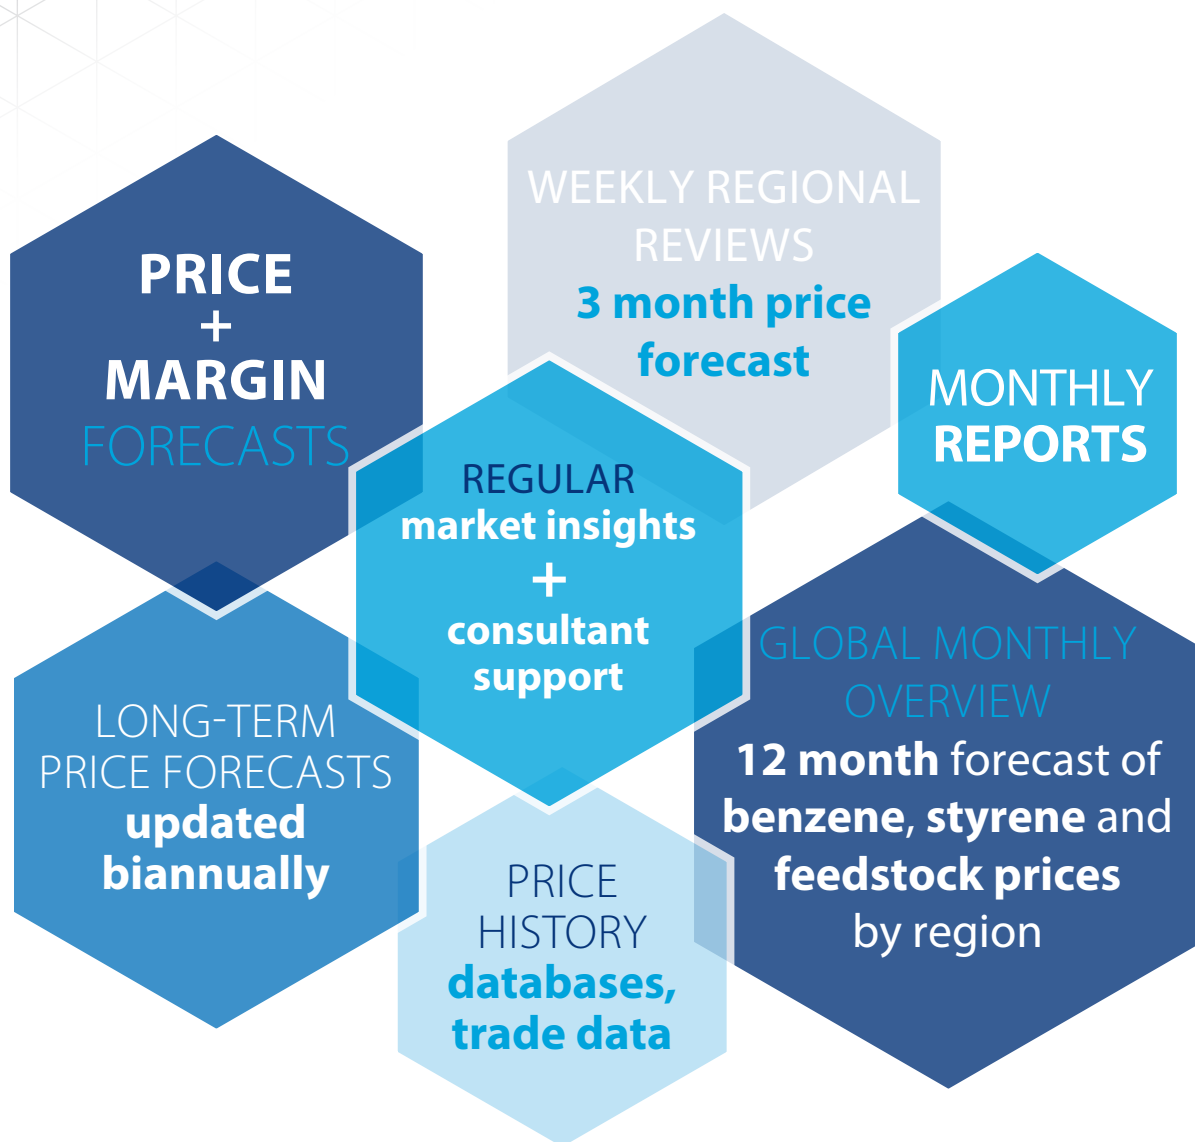

All services are available on a subscription basis.
