EDUCATION AND RESEARCH IN PALLIATIVE CARE

NEW STUDY DAY

→ THE COURSE

TARGET AUDIENCE

This day will be of interest to registered pharmacists working within hospital, community, hospice and GP practice.

ABOUT THIS COURSE

Due to an aging population living with co-morbidities, pharmacists require confidence in their ability to offer end of life care which is of a high quality. Whatever setting or practice, the provision of pharmaceutical care to patients who are approaching end of life and their families or carers will be needed.

This day will be centred around the NICE Quality Standard QS144 for Care of the Dying Adult in Last Days of Life. The day will cover:

- Management of symptoms at end of life
- Difficult conversations
- Use of syringe pumps and the subcutaneous route
- Opioid conversions
- Deprescribing

By the end of the day, participants will :

- Recognise symptoms which may suggest that a patient is entering the last weeks of life
- Feel confident in opioid conversions and the use of medications via the subcutaneous route
- Increased confidence in working with the multidisciplinary team to advise and provide high quality care

Provide evidence for GPhC CPD and RPS Faculty e-Portfolio
