Freedom of Information and Data Protection Policy

Reviewed	October 2017
Review Due	October 2020

School Statement

The school has a policy on Data Protection and Freedom of Information in order to ensure that both the young people and employees at the school have all of these aspects respected.

The school adheres to the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and the eight principles of Data Protection, a copy of which is attached to this policy. The school will also follow the expectations laid down in Standard 22 of the National Minimum Care Standards for Residential Special Schools.

Who is responsible for the maintenance of this Policy?

The governing body.

What is a “publication scheme” and why has it been developed by the school?

One of the aims of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (which is referred to as FOIA in the rest of this document) is that public authorities and schools should be clear and proactive about the information they will make public.

To do this we must produce a publication scheme, setting out:

- The type of information which we publish or intend to publish;
- The manner in which the information will be published; and
- Whether the information is available free of charge or on payment.

Who may request information from the school?

Any individual will be able to make a request to the school for information. The individual does not have to be the subject of that information, or be affected by its holding or use.

What if the person asking for the information is that information?

If an individual is the subject of that information then the principles of the Data Protection Act to protect the data the subject will take precedence over any Freedom of Information Act right.

The Act gives applicants two related rights:

- To be told whether the information is held by the school

- To receive the information, where possible in the manner requested, for example as a copy or summary, or in paper or electronic format. An individual may also request to inspect records in person

What areas does this publication scheme cover?

The scheme covers information already published and information which is to be published in the future. All information in our publication scheme is either available for you on our website to download and print off or available in paper form.

Will all information held by the school be made public or made accessible on request?

- No, some information that we hold may not be made public, for example personal information on pupils and employees.
- There is no obligation for the school to comply with 'vexatious' requests, or repeated requests, if the school has recently responded to an identical or substantially similar request from the same person, but there is a duty to provide advice and assistance to anyone making a request.
- The school must not release third party information or information provided in confidence if to do so would mean breaching one of the Data Protection Principles that are listed below.
- Where the disclosure would not breach the principles, the school may release the information. However, if the third party has served notice under s.10 DPA 1998 that disclosure would cause them unwarranted substantial damage or distress, or the third party would not have a right to know about the information relating to them or a right of access to it under the DPA 1998, the school is required to consider whether release of the information would be in the public interest.
- The public interest test requires the school to determine whether the public interest in withholding the exempt information outweighs the public interest in releasing it. This will be achieved by the school considering the circumstances of each particular case and the exemption that covers the information.

- Investigations and proceedings conducted by a public authority
- Health and safety and Environmental information

What do I do if the school applies an exemption on the information I want?

Where the school decides an exemption applies and withholds information, it will give reasons for its decision and inform the applicant of their right to complain to the Information Commissioner, giving the contact details set out later in this policy and guidance. Where an exemption applies, but the school is nevertheless required to release the information by the Information Commissioner, because it is in the public interest to do so, it will do so within a reasonable time after taking legal advice.

Does this scheme meet the guidance set out by the Information Commissioner?

The Information Commissioner oversees both the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and the Data Protection Act 1998. Both Acts relate to aspects of information policy. They overlap where personal information is considered for disclosure. This publication scheme conforms to the model scheme for schools approved by the Information Commissioner.

How do the schools aims and objectives relate to this policy?

The school aims is to:

- To assist every boy and girl to become the best version of his or her own Self
- To reintegrate children into mainstream school whenever possible.

This publication scheme is a means of showing how we are pursuing these aims.

What are the categories of information that will be published by the school?

The publication scheme guides you to information that we currently publish, or have recently published, or which we will publish in the future. This is split into categories of information known as classes. These are contained in section 6 of this scheme.

The classes of information that we undertake to make available are organised into four broad topic areas:

- School Prospectus – information published in the school prospectus.
- Governors' Documents – information published in the Governors Annual Report and in other governing body documents.
- Pupils & Curriculum – information about policies that relate to pupils and the school curriculum.
- School Policies and other information related to the school - information about policies that relate to the school in general.

How will a person request information?

The request must contain details of the applicant and of the information sought. Requests for information will be dealt with promptly, and within the Acts set maximum time of 20 working days. This is shorter than the 40-day limit set for subject access requests under the Data Protection Act 1998.

If you require any of the documents within the scheme, please contact the school by telephone, email, fax or letter. Contact details are set out below.

Information on the schools Data Protection policy and guidance

Who has access to young people's case records?

In order to safeguard and promote young peoples and staff welfare at the school, all records concerning them are kept safely and securely. The contents will remain confidential and will be shared only with the individuals who have a right to access the files as part of their job, or need to know their contents.

How will young people's files be identified within the school?

Any file, book, or log etc, that contains personal information on young people at the school, will be clearly marked with a sticker saying "Private and Confidential."

Where will young people's personal information be kept?

All young people personal information will be stored securely in locked filing cabinets in locked rooms. Each young person will have a "Main black File", which will be stored in the Vault Room. Any files taken from here must be signed in and out using the log in that room.

Where will staff personal information be kept?

All employees' files will be stored securely in locked filing cabinets in the Vault room. Access to files is only permissible in locked rooms. Each young person will have a "Main black File", which will be stored in the Vault Room. Any files taken from here must be signed in and out using the log in that room.

What happens to the file of young people who have left the school?

The files of the young people who have left the school are archived in a locked room and will be kept until their 21st birthday, or at least a minimum of 5 years from the date of the last entry for those pupils who may leave around the age of 17.

Can the young people at the school have access to their files?

Young people may read their files if they wish, with the exception of third party or confidential information. The young people may add personal statements, or statements that correct errors, though an adult must research any alleged errors for authenticity. In all cases, the school prefers that a member of staff is present when young people read their file in order to help them understand information that they may not understand or may be of a sensitive nature.

Passing on information with Child Protection implications.

All staff have access to the school's documentation regarding the Child Protection Procedure. They also receive training and regular updates in the school's Child Protection Procedure, which includes guidance on how to deal with and share any information that they may have been given in confidence on child protection issues.

How long will other written information at the school be kept?

The following written information kept by the school will be held for a minimum period of 5 years from the date of the last entry.

- a. The Accident Log, which records accidents to staff and visitors, and to young people whilst the school is looking after them.
- b. The school visitors' book.
- c. The school daily diary
- d. The daily log of events as kept by the Head and Senior Staff.
- e. Staff personnel files
- f. The whole school register

How will file entries be identified?

All file entries are to be signed and dated by any member of staff who makes any entry in them.

What are the limitations on staff in relation to the content of young people's files, documentation and personal information?

No member of staff may take or remove from the site any document, or part document, or electronically encrypted documents or materials about young people, without first seeking permission of the Head or Company Secretary.

No member of staff may disclose information about individual young people, their parents / carers, or documentation in relation to them to any person or agency not connected to the company unless it is in the normal course of their professional duties.

No member of staff may discuss or disclose any Child Protection information to any person other than the school's Child Protection officers or investigating officer from an area Child Protection team.

How does the school ensure confidentiality in other areas?

No member of staff may take or remove from the site any document, or part document, or electronically encrypted documents or materials e.g. young persons personal information, company documents or PPP Manual, without first seeking written permission of the Head or Company Secretary.

No member of staff may talk to the press or media about the company, its work, the young people, parents / carers, or staff, without first obtaining permission from the Head or company Secretary.

How does the school comply with Data Protection Legislation in relation to staff?

To comply fully with Data Protection legislation, and that of the Data Protection Act 1998, the school is required to inform people that it may need to store, access and process information relating to them personally. Outlined below are the principal reasons for holding such data,
