We provide our customers with critical facilities solutions securing mission critical functions for reliable power and communications. By performing needs assessments, we find the optimal level for each customer and ensure that required service levels are met for secure 24/7 operations during the full lifecycle.

Coromatic actively works to meet customers' needs and always strive to exceed their expectations of the services provided, while conducting its business according to the business plan and within relevant regulatory requirements.

We keep mission critical infrastructure components in an operating condition, with a high level of service and availability provided by motivated and competent staff. This generates a basis for additional business and long lasting customer relationships.

Employees are expected to actively contribute their skills and dedication to delivering high quality services and strive for continuous improvement throughout the equipment lifecycle.

Furthermore, quality workmanship should be well anchored in the organization through relevant training and clear instructions based on commitment and demand from staff and other stakeholders.
