KATE KINGSTON CELEBRATES AS MERSEYSIDE ENTREPRENEUR OF THE YEAR

Kate Kingston, founder of Kingston Shaw Interior Design and Kingston Shaw Residential, has been awarded the coveted title of Entrepreneur of the year at the Merseyside Women of the Year Awards.

Kate was awarded in recognition of her work launching and running two successful businesses across Merseyside; Kingston Shaw Residential and Kingston Shaw Interiors, each turning a profit despite the recession. Kate is also a mentor with the Prince's Trust, supporting young people across the region.

KS Residential has contracts with companies such as Grosvenor, managing the sales and letting for Liverpool's One Park West. With offices in the Wirral, London and Dubai, Kingston Shaw Interiors designs and delivers interiors for both the high-end residential and commercial sectors, across the UK and internationally.

Kate comments, 'It is such an honour to receive this award, the whole day showed what strong and hardworking women we have in Liverpool. Having worked all over the world it is great to bring business to my hometown and I will never tire of promoting the wonderful region'. In her acceptance speech, Kate thanked her team, "Without them I would not be able to do half the things I do."

Held at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, Liverpool, and celebrating 10 years of the award, the Merseyside Woman of the Year event was hosted for the second year running by actress and comedian Pauline Daniels who provided light relief throughout the emotional afternoon.
