GOOD Bacteria vs. Anti-Bacterial Products

Septic tanks safely treat and recycle wastewater through the use of a surprisingly simple system, basically powered by nothing more than gravity, fluid dynamics, and bacteria. That's right: good bacteria are essential to the proper functioning of your septic tank by breaking down waste solids.

We're accustomed to viewing bacteria in a negative light, as demonstrated by the abundance of disinfectants, sanitizers, and anti-bacterial products in every home. Since these products routinely go down the drain in the process of household cleaning and deodorizing, especially in the bathroom, they can have the side effect of killing off the beneficial bacteria your septic tank needs. The failure of "dead" septic tanks is an increasing problem.

But septic tank owners don't have to avoid using anti-bacterial products. Add once a month to restore the good worker bacteria to counteract the effects of household disinfectants. Bio-Active makes it easy to maintain a clean and sanitized home environment as well as a healthy bacteria population in your septic tank.

Pure enzymes are added to the formula to ensure more rapid initial action, as bacteria usually require a few days to activate and adjust to the new environment. Once established, the bacteria will carry out the work effectively to completion. Formulated to buffer and fortify with various micro-nutrients.
