

Saint-Gobain

Jewsons, Kirkaldy

Owned by the global Saint-Gobain Group, Jewson is one of the largest chains of British general builders' merchants, selling to small and medium building contractors, as well as to the general public.

Weatherproofing Advisors Ltd were appointed by Saint-Gobain to carry out the refurbishment of the Jewson Builders Merchant branch in Kirkcaldy, Fife.

The works involved the safe removal of the existing asbestos cement roof and wall cladding, then the installation of a new twin-skin insulated metal roof system, along with the replacement of all external wall cladding and guttering.

The walls and flashings were coloured to match Jewson's corporate branding.

Following a comprehensive survey of the entire building, a full schedule of works was prepared by Weatherproofing Advisors which incorporated safe access scaffolding, internal safety netting, air monitoring, route planning, and the installation of a new roof, guttering and cladding system.

The works were carried out whilst the trading, delivery and warehousing facility was fully operational. Working together with the Saint-Gobain project team allowed us to carry out the full works with minimal disruption to the day-to-day operations.

The roof and walls are now watertight and benefit greatly through the upgrade in insulation.

"Overall, I am very satisfied with the job. Your guys were good and the staff in the branch were happy with how the work was carried out."
