The Problem

Frontline were seeking a new solution for processing invoices, to replace their previous OCR scanning software. They needed a solution that could handle the large volume of documents they received, and process them with minimal intervention.

The Requirements

The new solution needed to integrate with Frontline's existing document management system, OnBase. This would allow them to easily feed invoices into their system, so that they could be signed off electronically.

The Solution

Frontline chose PSI:Capture, with its built-in OnBase connector and extensive functionality. Invoices are scanned, and PSI:Capture extracts the data from a cover sheet. The document is then indexed and exported into OnBase.

Frontline's accounts department are currently scanning 10,000 documents a month. They have significantly reduced paper handling and are able to execute accounts processes much more quickly.

Incoming supplier invoices and sales orders are scanned on an MFP and imported in PSI:Capture for processing.

PSI:Capture reads a header sheet to index the document and extract additional data via a look up to a database.

Scanned documents are converted into text-searchable PDF. Index data and documents are exported directly into OnBase for storage and approval workflow.
