

Enriching moments: Data-driven sports experiences

We worked with Squawka to design, develop and deploy their iOS and Android applications. Built around complex real time datasets, the Squawka experience is designed to be immersive, social and deeply engaging. Using their style guidelines and building on the data science underpinning their website, we built performance oriented applications that would compliment the real-time nature of the service and meet their users' expectation of immediacy.

