About Pierre Gonalons

Pierre Gonalons is a product designer, interior architect and creative director.

Born in Lyon with an Italian cultural background, he offers a vision of design that combines an echo of decorative arts and popular culture along minimalist lines. In an over-codified environment, he has chosen not to overdraw his creations, to let them have a chance to live beyond trends.

During his visit to Hong Kong, Gonalons will also present a special lecture to students from the Hong Kong Polytechnic University School of Design.

A 2002 graduate from Camondo in Paris, Pierre Gonalons founded Ascète in 2003. Ascète’s creations, all individually signed, include furniture, lamps, objects and watches. In addition, Gonalons works with brands including Chloé, Kiehl’s, Lalique, L’Oréal Luxe, Nina Ricci Parfums, Pernod and others on product conception, space setting and creative strategy.

He was awarded Best breakthrough Designer at the 2007 Wallpaper Design Awards, while his first solo exhibition of limited edition furniture PAVILLONS for the Armel Soyer Gallery was presented at Design Miami Art Basel. Earlier this year, during the AD Collections fair in Paris, he launched a new production of exceptional pieces using Grand Antique marble from a renowned quarry which has just reopened in France.

Le French May is Hong Kong’s unique celebration of French culture, encompassing scores of events across the city in May. Avenue des Arts is a Hong Kong-based agency which provides Contemporary Art & Design Consultancy services for Hospitality, Property & Corporate projects.
