Does No Really and a Power

On behalf of the Department for Education and of the Education and Skills Funding Agency, I am writing to congratulate you both on Weir Training's recent outstanding Ofsted inspection.

I know how pleased you will be with your result. It not only provides recognition for your work and commitment to improving outcomes for learners, but will also act as a powerful example to other further education providers.

I realise how challenging your roles are and, if you are not already doing so, I would like to encourage you to play a part in sharing your knowledge and experience to help others achieve the same high standard.

I firmly believe that excellence in further education is vital to help young people and adults achieve their potential. It strengthens local communities and supports employers to achieve growth, by improving workforce skills and the job prospects of the people you train. It is through your organisation and others like you that Britain can equip people with the skills they need to succeed in life.

Please pass on my congratulations to all in your organisation.

Best-aw
A. M. E.
