

CE MARKING

A CE mark or formerly the EC mark, became mandatory for all fabricated steelwork on 1st July 2014. This is a manufacturer's declaration that their product meets the minimum requirements of a harmonised technical specification.

All Wareing buildings are manufactured at our works to comply with the British Standard 5502 for Agricultural Buildings & British Standard 5950/EN 1993 Eurocode 3 for Industrial Buildings and in June 2014, the company was awarded the CE Mark for its products, certified to Execution Class 2 level. This validates that J Wareing & Son have the necessary Factory Production Control system and Welding Certificates in place and fully operational.

Execution Class 1: Basic Farm Buildings (non-load bearing)

Execution Class 2: Grain Stores, Silos, Load Bearing Farm Buildings & Industrial Buildings
