To The Families We Serve

We understand what it means to be bereaved and that you may be bewildered and in shock. Our mission is to bring care and comfort to you at this very difficult moment. We want to do this because we know mourning, not just grieving, really makes a difference in how we heal from a loss. In order to truly understand what will help, we promise to listen intently to your needs, follow through with our promises, and follow up with you until you don't need support.

We would like to recommend you complete three tasks in order to lessen the intensity of mourning. First, witness the deceased where it is most comfortable for you; be it at the place of death, such as the hospital, home or nursing home or somewhere else such as the funeral home. Second, have a ceremony that acknowledges your loss, pays tribute to the deceased and honors your faith. Lastly, invite the public. It's good for the community and will be good for you even though you may be anxious about it. Grief is a universal feeling that is best relieved through being with others.

Our funeral directors are experts in grief, mourning and ceremony. They will lead a team of caregivers to assist you, your family and your guests through this difficult time. It is our goal to provide you with an incomparable experience that honors your deceased loved one through tributes and services completely unique to your family and only available at Bradley Funeral Homes.

We only ask one favor of you. Please tell us everything we can do to make this most difficult of life transitions the most meaningful.

Sincerely,

Scott W. Bradley, MSW, Owner
