

NATIONAL SPILL RESPONSE PROGRAM

The OMI Environmental Solutions (OMIES) National Spill Response Program (NSRP) provides customers with one-call emergency response 24/7. Through the response program, OMIES will notify the closest response facility to a petroleum or hazardous material incident. OMIES will dispatch local project managers who will immediately respond to the incident with specialists and equipment, assess the incident, begin control, containment and cleanup. If requested, OMIES can provide an on-site project manager to oversee the cleanup process and act as the responsible party's representative and be able to provide a single invoice to the customer at the completion of the incident.

OMIES can also provide auditing of your existing contractor network. OMIES will perform this audit on-site and ensure that equipment and personnel are as listed and company information is correct. Also, OMIES will review safety, training, workman's comp rates, etc.

NATIONAL SPILL RESPONSE PROGRAM – HISTORY

In August of 2000, OMIES was contacted by several customers that wanted the ability to make one phone call and have a response organization respond to their incident anywhere in the country. In response to this OMIES established a response organization that covered the eastern United States with emphasis on the Inland River Systems and the Gulf Coast Intercostal Waterways. In the last 15 years, NSRP has grown exponentially in the United States (LWR 48) and internationally including Canada, Puerto Rico, Mexico, South America, and South Africa. OMIES currently has almost 300 sub-contractors worldwide servicing over 400 customers with the ability to make one phone call and have a response organization respond to an incident anywhere in the country within a reasonable amount of time (on average 1 to 2 hours).
