Technical doesn't have to be tricky.

Consider this your 2-minute education in TFL and HPL: thermally fused laminate and high-pressure laminate. They both bring lots of character to a space, but there are slight variations that can make a big difference.

Laminate 101

Thermally Fused Laminates

- Permanently bonded to particleboard or MDF
- Fewer steps in fabrication process = reduced costs
- Suitable for vertical and low-impact horizontal applications

High Pressure Laminates

- Glued to particleboard or MDF
- Additional fabrication steps = higher costs
- Suitable for high-impact horizontal applications

We're here to make it simple.

Mherge Series

Inspired by architectural concretes and ceramics, Mherge combines the sleek look of glazed tiles with a faded wood façade, adding effortless flair. If you want to really impress, pair them with Medina or Sawcut textures for a match made in heaven.

Reclamation Series

Crafted from repurposed mill flooring, these panels are the real deal and offer distinct character to any space. The authentic, rustic look makes a lasting impression that only grows fonder when paired with Medina or Sawcut.

Worn Oak Series

Authentic and assertive—this design makes repurposed look relevant and comes in three pops of color that pair well with our Medina or AuthenTICK textures. This Oak line is sure to please right out of the gate, and will keep them feeling warm and fuzzy.

Accentz Series

Originally developed as accents, these styles can also stand on their own. A pleasing palette of neutrals, they compliment many of our brown woodgrains; pair with our Satin texture for a smooth, clean look, or be unique with Cascade and Sawcut.

Volcano Series

This series takes cues from the natural fiber veneers of Martinique, with three island inspired designs that look wild with Medina, AuthenTICK or Timberline. Like a warm ocean breeze, these natural patterns and calming colors relax and rejuvenate.

Lookin' good is just part of the package.

Prism is a proud member of the Arauco family. For over 45 years, Arauco has had the same vision: to be a global leader in sustainable forest products. Today, we are one of the largest and most respected forestry companies around because of our long-term commitment to sustainability and focus on a brighter future.

We don't just talk the sustainability talk. We're all-in.

Some earth-friendly stats:

- Each of our North American mills are Eco-Certified (ECC) by the Composite Panel Association
- They are also in compliance with the California Air Resources Board (CARB 2) formaldehyde standard
- Our panels are available FSC Certified and qualify for LEED credits

It may sound complicated, but it's really quite simple: we care about our footprint and strive to give you products you can be proud of.

The Prism website has everything you need to get it done; coordinating products, substrate options, design enlargements, inspiration and ordering made easy. Make something fun at
