The Falanghina wines are produced by Solopaca, one of the oldest wine cooperatives in the Campania Region of Italy, which creates wines of distinction yet to be widely enjoyed in the UK.

I discovered this dazzling wine last summer in Italy when looking for an alternative to the now ubiquitous prosecco. Already a lover of Falanghina's still white wines, when I first tasted this sparkling Falanghina Brut, I realised that I had stumbled upon a wine of exceptional quality and value. We were so impressed and confident of its appeal to aficionados of champagnes and dry sparkling white wines, we have now become Solopaca Cellar's UK sole importers and distributors for their sparkling white wine range.
