

#NoMoreGames

The voice of your doctor

The National Health Service

No More Games

We call on all political parties to stop playing games with the NHS

No More Games

The British Medical Association is calling for an open and honest public debate about the future of the NHS

We're calling for:

No More Games with the public's health

- Long-term commitment to address the major public health issues in our society
- Public confidence that health services will be properly resourced, easy to access and free at the point of use, now and in the future

No More Games with NHS funding

- All political parties to commit to long-term investment to secure the future of the NHS
- Short-term funding announcements to score political points to become a thing of the past

No More Games with who's providing care

- The health and wellbeing of patients must always come before making profits from healthcare
- A publicly-funded, publicly-provided service to deliver the best patient care

Add your voice to ours at bma.org.uk/NoMoreGames

Show your support for our campaign

Visit our website to sign up to the campaign and watch our film

  Share your stories

Tell us why you want NoMoreGames with the NHS on our Facebook and Twitter pages. Remember to tag your stories with #NoMoreGames