Our Culture.

Here at FoodPro we pride ourselves on supporting our team to achieve their career goals. We do this by providing a working environment based on the values of Honesty, Environment, Action Responsibility, Team (HEART).

Why join FoodPro?

FoodPro continues to retain its core family business values, however alongside these values, we consistently continue to invest in both our people and our processes.

The business has recently expanded its production facilities, which in turn has opened a need to expand our current work force.

What key ingredients are we looking for?

A “can do attitude “, a good work ethic, punctuality and a want to be part of something great!

What is a typical day like?

Working in the food industry as a QA, you will be required to police the daily production procedures and complete regular checks across the site. This requires someone who can work both as part of a team and individually. When working alone you must be self-disciplined and have that “can do attitude “.

This role provides a lot of self-satisfaction, knowing you are a part of a team of people monitoring and ensuring food quality and ensuring safety procedures are followed.

Salary is dependent on experience. There are 3 shift patterns available: Monday to Friday 05:00 - 14:00, 07:00 - 15:00 and 15:00 - 23:00. Flexibility will be required regarding shift end times as this is a food production environment.

If you are a self-driven individual with a “can to attitude “and is someone who wants to make a difference – please apply. We look forward to speaking to you ...
