Abraxas

Written by: -

Abraxas is a demon of the astral plane who destroy witches by demonising their powers.

Abraxas is known in the Gnostic writings of Simon Magus, the father of Gnostics. It is said the name originated as a replacement for the unmentionable name of the Supreme Being. He was depicted with a lion's head surrounded by rays during Gnostic ceremonies. It is said that the Persian sun god also had this name.

Basilides of Egypt, an early 2nd-century Gnostic teacher, viewed Abraxas as the supreme deity and the source of divine emanations, the ruler of all the 365 heavens, or circles of creation--one for each day of the year. The number 365 corresponds to the numerical value of the seven Greek letters that form the word abraxas.

The Akashic Records

Written by: Prue Halliwell

Legends hold it buried somewhere near a rocky desert, is a fable book, penned by ancient mystics, known as the Akashic Records. Believed to be a written account of all significant events throughout time. To know the future brings, obviously, ultimate power.

To find them, one needs a map. A tablet found in the Ivory Colls is believed to be the very map. The engravings will tell the exact latitude and longitude of the Akashic Records.

Alchemist's Tools

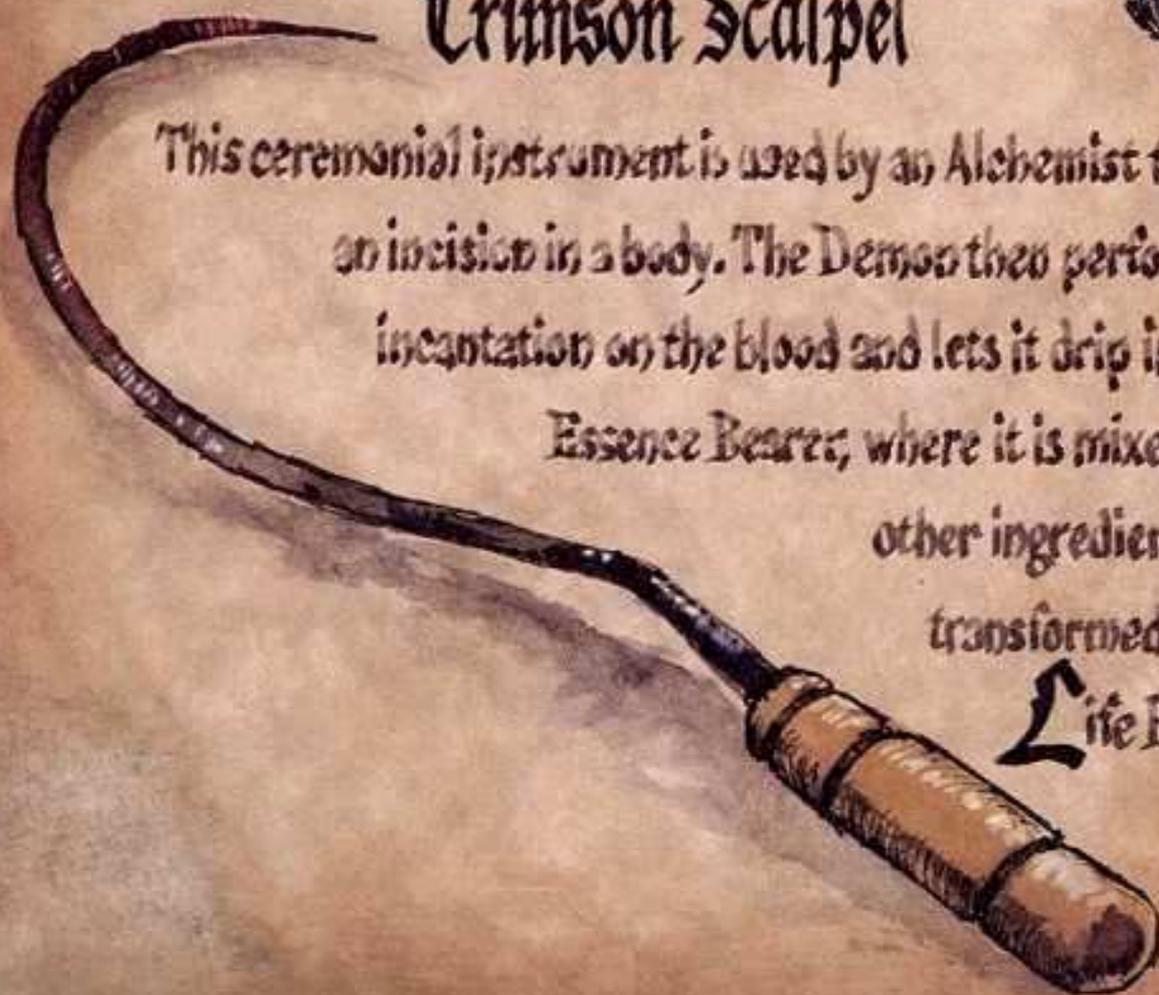

Essence Bearer

An Alchemist would use a bottle such as this to capture and / or store a Life essence. A Life Essence is comparable to a human soul, but made in a mixing lab. A well made Life Essence can possess any living being but would prove toxic and eventually lethal to the being's pre-existing Soul.

Crimson Scalpel

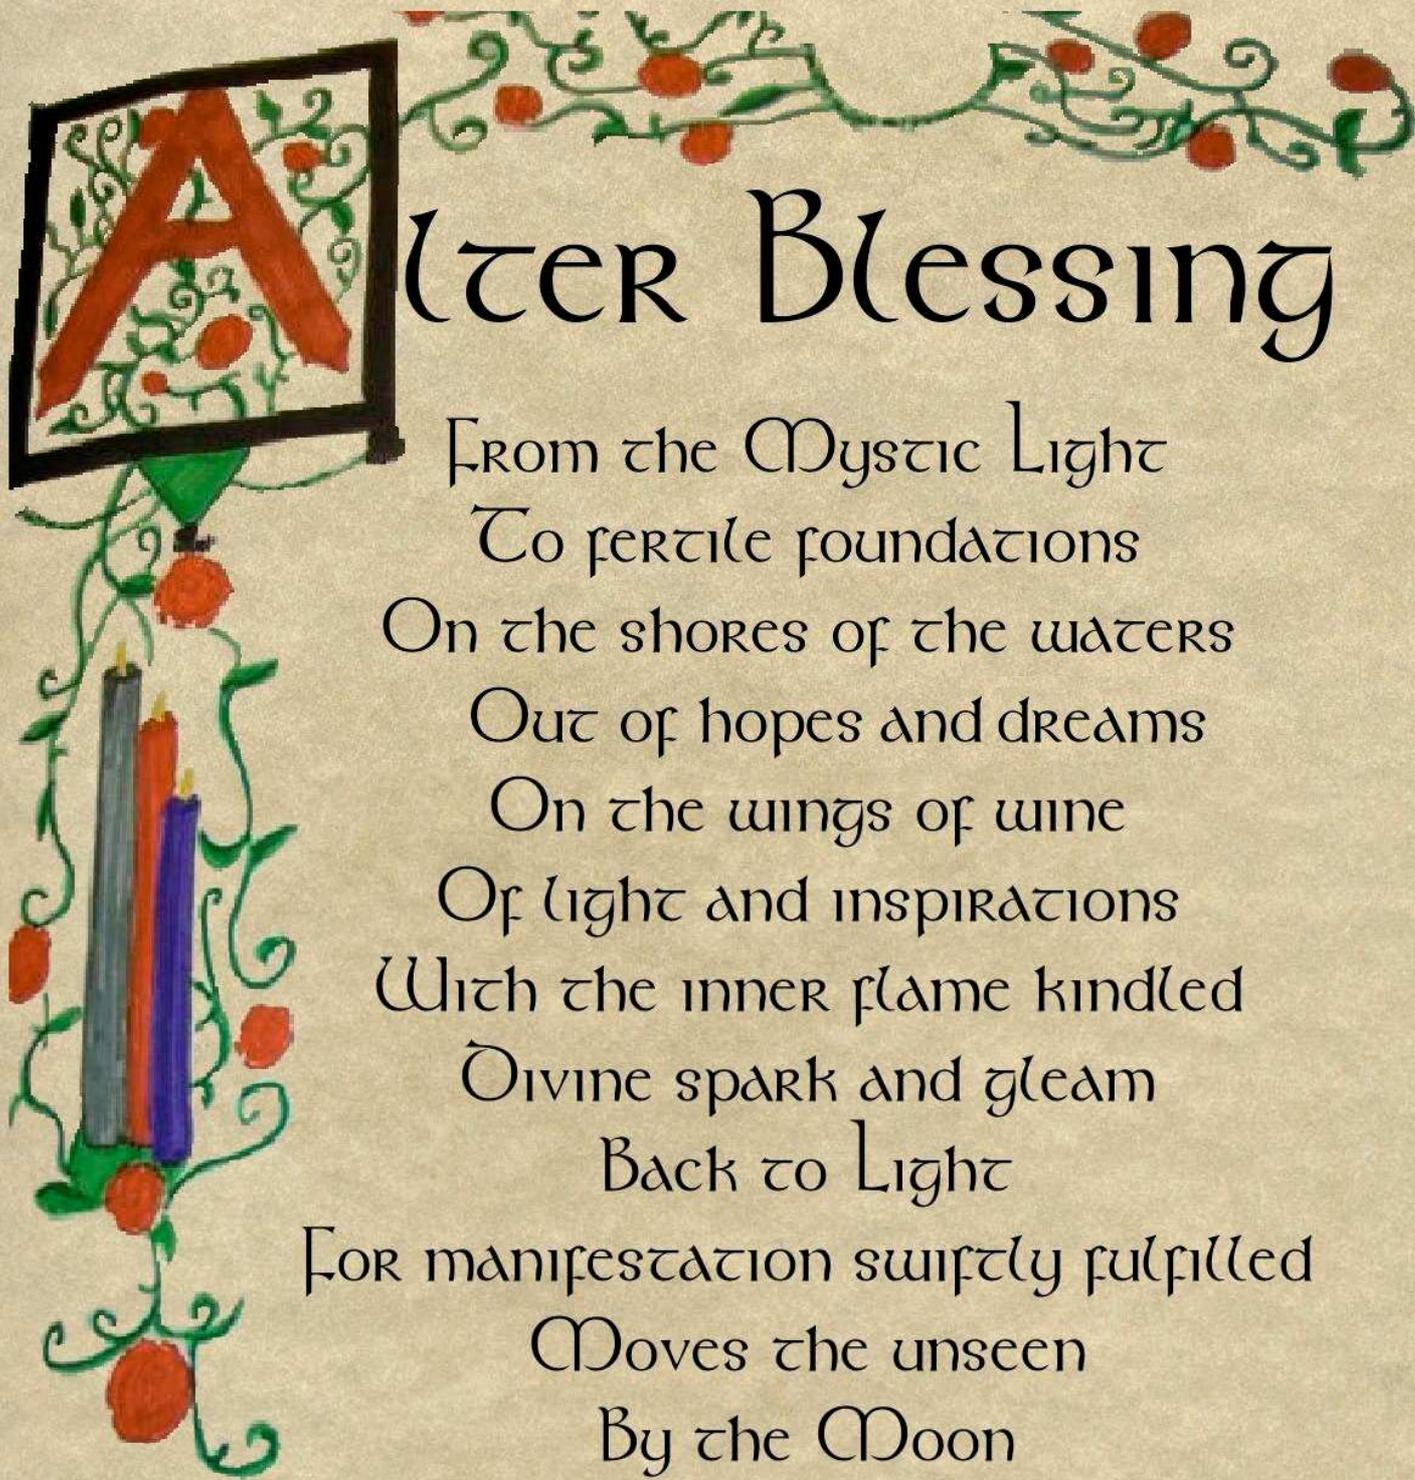

This ceremonial instrument is used by an Alchemist to open an incision in a body. The Demon then performs an incantation on the blood and lets it drip into the Essence Bearer, where it is mixed with other ingredients and transformed into a Life Essence.

Alchemists

Using metaphysical tools and dark magic, Alchemists can transform any substance into another. For example, an Alchemist's powers can turn water into gold and energy into matter. Sometimes, these demons also have the innate ability to transform the dead into the living by calling the souls back into corpses.

Andras

Andras, the spirit of rage, uses anger as a portal to enrage his victims until they commit a grievous act of violence. Although the rage leaves the victim after the act is committed, the violence usually serves a greater purpose, making Andras a powerful foe. The Spirit of Rage has used abilities to incite wars that lasted for decades and redefined.

In addition, due to the insidious nature of his work, Andras can be extremely difficult to defeat.

He cannot be defeated. Summon the spell:*

*Spirits of air, sand and sea

The Angel of Destiny

Written by: Piper Halliwell

The Angel of Destiny has the ability to freeze anything and anyone. He is beyond a witch's power and poses no threat. His mission is not to intervene (unless it is a desperate situation), but to offer rewards and chart new destinies to those who deserve it. The Angel of Destiny cannot help those who exist outside of time, space or destiny's reach. Those he has helped include Wolfgang Mozart and Britney Spears.

Anton is a powerful warlock

He will seduce a witch and give

After the children's use has waned, the Grimlocks consume them.

To Destroy a Grimlock:

with which to blind the Grimlocks,
thus killing them.

Avatars

Avatars are all-powerful and indestructible beings who are not limited to good or evil.

They plan to take control of reality and transform it in their own image.

Although they can reverse time it requires great power. It drains the Collective, and puts it at risk. Avatars' powers are tied together. There exists a potion to kill avatars. Killing one of them, weakens them all and makes them vulnerable.

About 5000 years ago an ancient civilisation fought off the avatars with this potion.

A Banshee

is a demon who wanders the earth feeding on souls in great pain. Hunting only at night, this Demon uses her voice as a high pitched Call to locate a victim by hearing the inner cry.

She does this by zeroing in on the waves of pain that emanate from the stricken.

A Banshee then elevates her Call into a Scream so powerful that it kills those she targets.

The Demon of Fear, also known as Barbas appears on earth once every 1300 years on Friday the 13th for twenty four hours. His appearance is attributed to the universal convergence of negative energies as described in astrological charts. He derives his force by feeding off the fears of witches. If he can kill 13 unmarried, single female witches before the stroke of midnight on the 13th he will be able to break free from his eternal bonds and walk the earth for eternity.

A witch's only defense is to identify and release her greatest fear.

Do not rely on your Wicca powers for defense, for in the face of your greatest fear, these powers are paralyzed.

To let go of your fear, trust in the greatest of all powers.

Categories of Ghosts and Spirits

Influences: the mildest form of ghost. They manifest themselves in a vague sort of "feeling" which adhere to places or occasionally to objects, often unpleasantly, but in no more tangible form.

Poltergeists: the noisy ghosts. These manifest themselves by destructive outbursts of energy, which cause physical results of various types, usually involving the destruction of household objects or loud noises. A poltergeist may manifest itself by moving or levitating objects.

Apparitions: the traditional ghosts, which are shadowy figures that appear and disappear. They are often associated with historical locations. Some apparitions have been of the living, and others have been animals and objects, for example ghost ships, phantom animals or mysteriously appearing and disappearing objects.

Phantasms of the living: are apparitions of people who are still alive, but who appear in one place while their physical body remains in another. Such apparitions usually indicate: people who are on the point of death, who manifest themselves to someone closely involved with them; or are people who are conveying some message of urgency (for example, the mother who appears to warn her child of danger) or people who are asleep at the time and who project their astral bodies accidentally or intentionally.

Haunting: when the characteristics of apparitions and poltergeists are considered to result in psychic phenomena of an alarmingly high rate or nature.

Celerity Demons

Celerity Demons are powerful beings who feed off lesser demons. Proud, solitary, aggressive and with quickness faster than human sight they are very difficult to both find and fight.

However, destroying one is possible by potion. Ingredients include mandrake root, hummingbird's wings and eye of newt.

Are you prepared to take the power and position of the Source before these leaders of the underworld?

Then the Source speaks the oath. Upon completion of the oath, the Source will be given the full powers of the underworld.

Count Roget

Count Roget was the owner of the Cabaret Fantome. Over a century ago he made a deal with the demon Sargon. He was forced to file for bankruptcy, which was probably the reason for the deal.

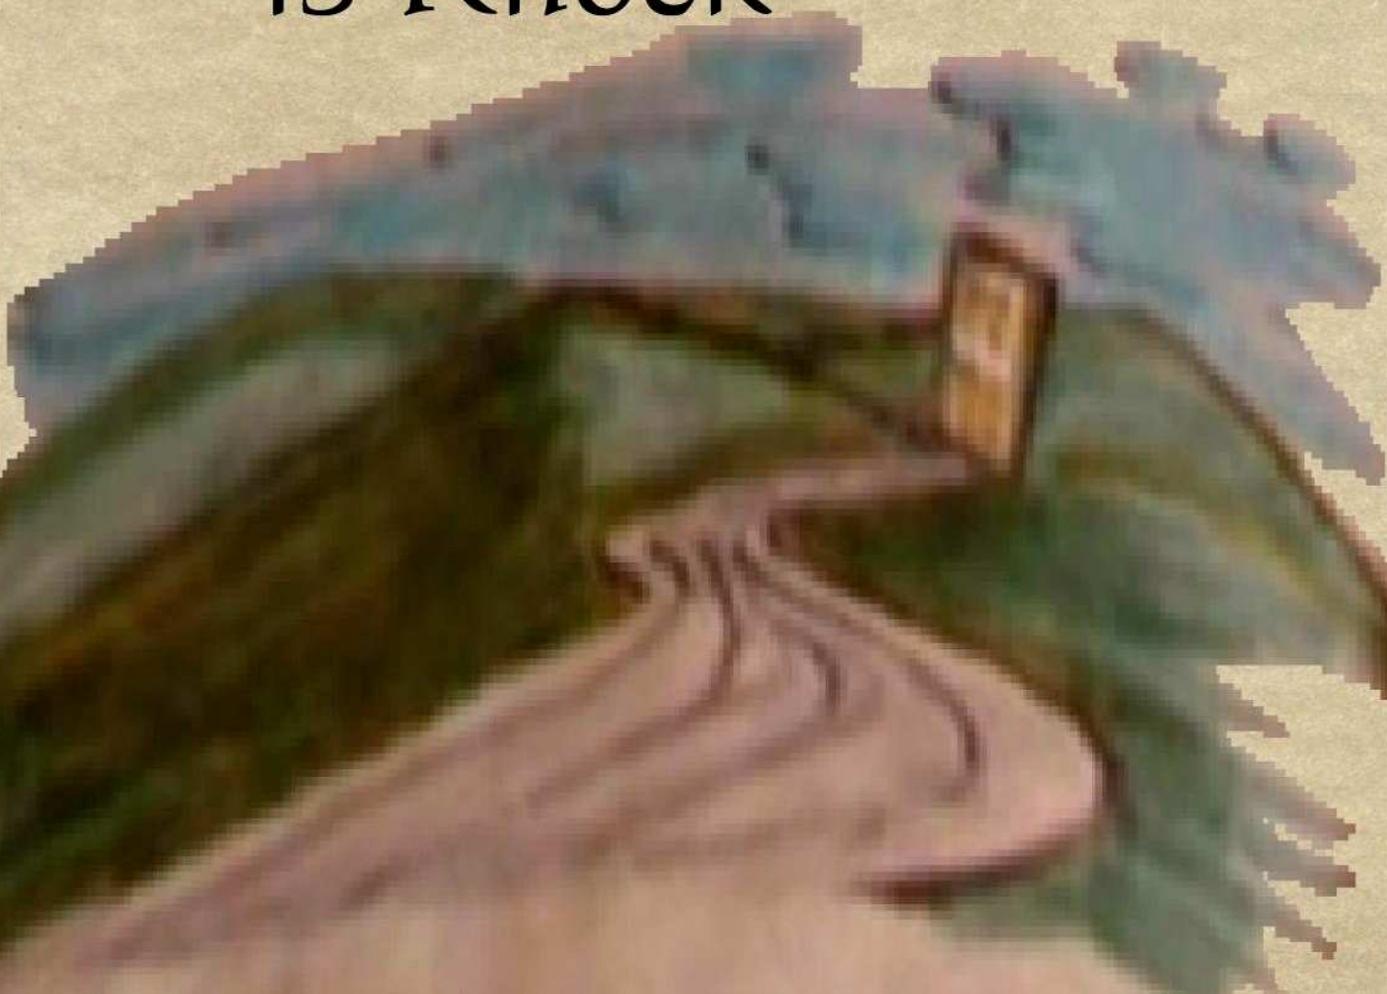

When a club burnt down, killing everyone inside, good and bad souls died at once. Neither good nor bad ones could move on because they were holding each other back. They were stuck in their respective afterlives, unaware of their fate. They were repeating the night of the fire. Normally the solution would be to separate the good souls from the bad ones, by breaking the deal with the demon.

Cupid is a messenger of love responsible for bringing people together who have a chance at love. Many agents roam the earth using their powers to connect people. They use their sensitivity to guide mortals, ease their pain and even heal them. Full Empaths spend eternity helping people, and their gift helps them to embrace the emotions of others.

Evil Spirits

Written by: Phoebe Halliwell

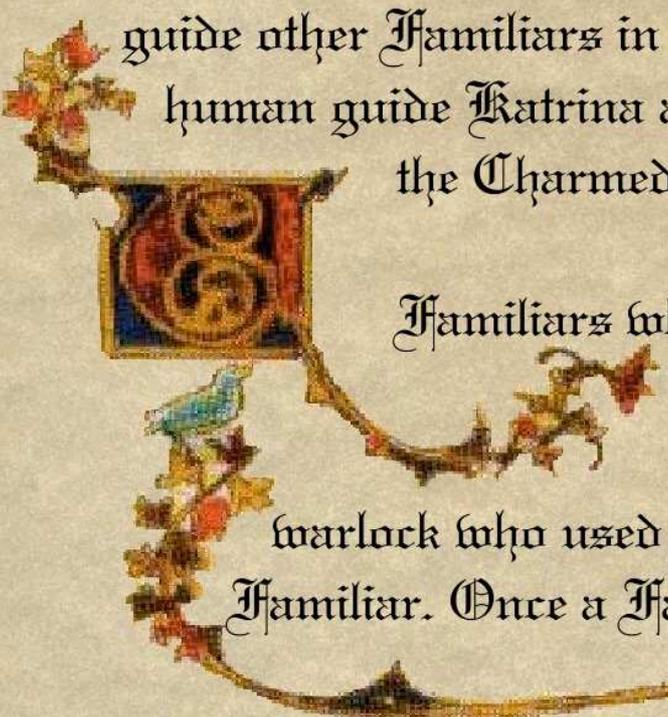

Evil Spirits are ghosts who continue to feel hatred for the world. Some evil spirits need a dead body to transport them across water. They finger prints in form of ectoplasm. Ectoplasm is the ghost's skin; It's outside the visual spectrum. An evil spirit can't be vanquished on the physical, only on the astral plane.

The Evolution of Familiars:

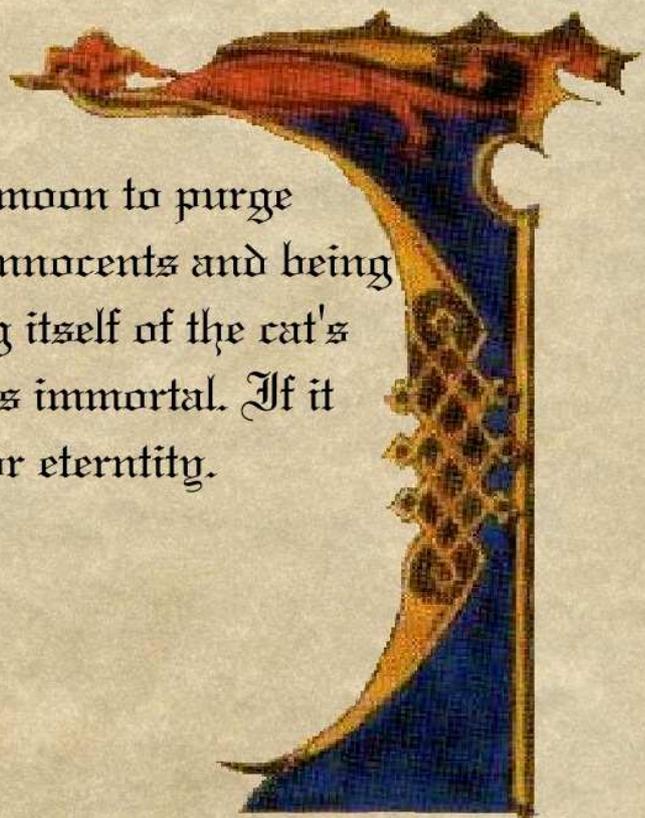

Shadow & Katrina (Kit)

When a Familiar has served his or her purpose, and the young witch no longer needs it to be her guide, it will leave her home. If the Familiar has done its job well, it will be transformed into a human, and will help to guide other Familiars in their task. Kit became the human guide Katrina as a reward for her guidance of the Charmed Ones.

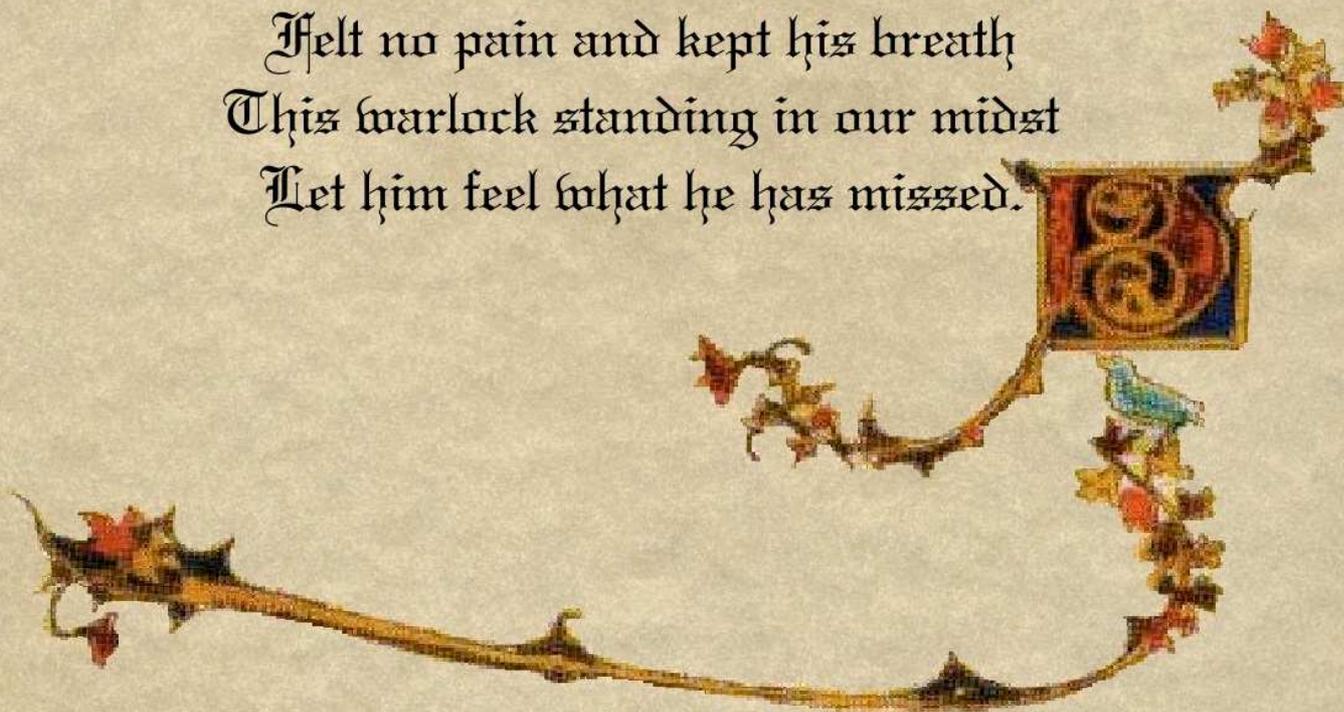

Familiars who have not served his or her witch become warlocks. Shadow is one such being, a warlock who used to be a cat-shaped Familiar. Once a Familiar becomes a warlock, it has until the next full moon to purge itself of its old life by slaughtering innocents and being vanquished nine times, thus ridding itself of the cat's nine lives. If it succeeds, it becomes immortal. If it fails, it returns to its animal state for eternity.

Vanquish a Familiar-Warlock with the following spell:

Nine times this evil's cheated death
Felt no pain and kept his breath
This warlock standing in our midst
Let him feel what he has missed.

Fairytales

Written by: Piper Halliwell

Some fairytales are recounting of ancient battles between good and evil. Fairy tale magic runs out at midnight. The power of every fairy tale emanates from artefacts like Cinderella's slippers. Their magic continues to shape every child born, even to this day. These artefacts are stored in a secret fortress.

The Keeper of Fairytales

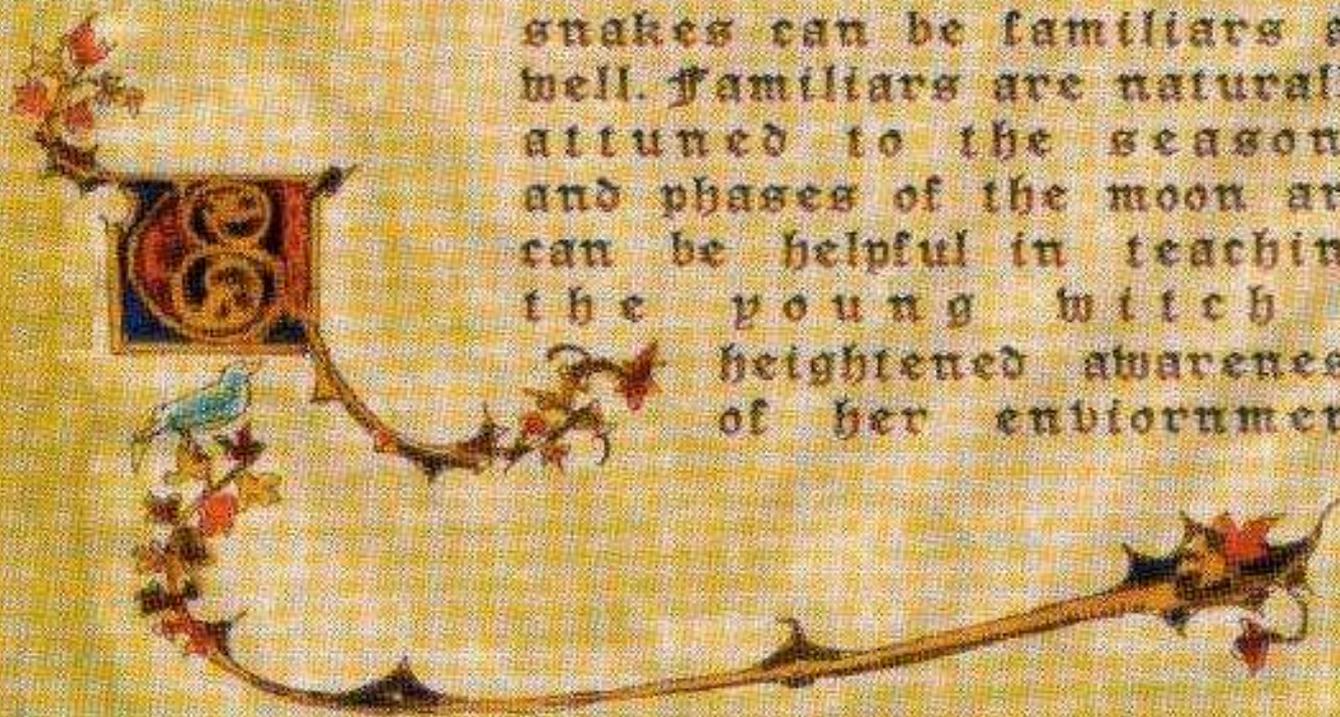

Written by: Piper Halliwell

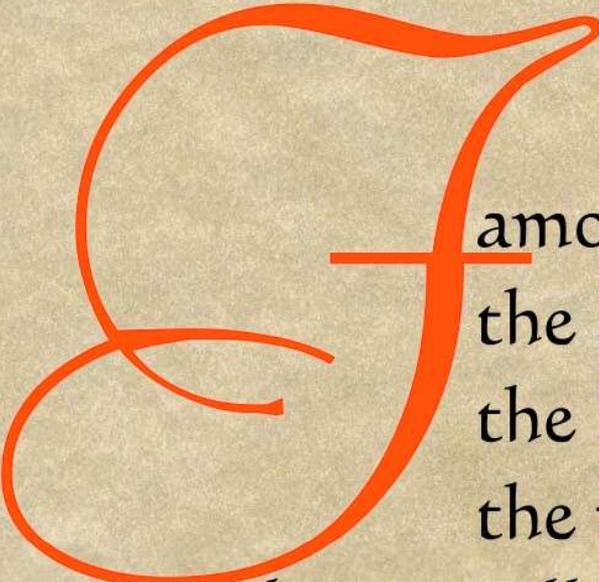

The Keeper of the Fairytales has been trusted with the original artefacts for protection because if somebody uses fairytales for evil, it could rewrite them, corrupt them for every future generation.

Familiars

Familiars are enchanted creatures who follow and guide new witches to protect them while they learn the Craft. While they are often cats, other animals, like dogs, rabbits, horses and snakes can be familiars as well. Familiars are naturally attuned to the seasons and phases of the moon and can be helpful in teaching the young witch a heightened awareness of her environment.

amous books such as the book of demons, the book of kells, and the famous book of gospels were all written by scribes in the 8th century in insular half crown or coloured script. Numbered, such a rich precision, the quill seems to move over the page with the scribes written with the quill held at a flat angle, they have such pleasing angles to the eye, they are quick to read, and each of these shows home to such a fine example of calligraphy and beautiful illustrations that even by today's artists cannot be equalled.

Genies

Written by: Leo Wyatt

Genies only work for themselves. If a genie grants three wishes, the genie goes free but with genie's there's always a catch, an unseen consequence

They are not evil by nature and won't harm you unless you wish for something.

Free genies don't have powers.

To undo your wishes the genie has to go back into the bottle.

Ghosts, Poltergeists and Hauntings

The term "ghost" conjures up an image, peaceful or tortured, of the spirit of someone who has died. It is generally assumed that the dead, if restless and returned from the grave, would be attracted either to their relatives, people with whom they had some close association during life or to places that had a special meaning to them. One theory holds that events imprint themselves on the substance of the environment. 'Because they are trapped in the fabric of time, their images are eternally re-enacted. The spirits of the murdered are said to return to the scene of their death as a reproachful or vengeful reminder.

Ghosts are not necessarily visible, frightening or ethereal. Indeed, many have been mistaken for solid, physical individuals. Furthermore, ghosts may be perceived in a variety of ways, though often only visible to psychics while non-psychics merely "feel" or "sense" their presence. If an individual possesses some psychic faculty, they may perceive the ghost by means of vision, sound or feeling. Ghosts can also be experienced through other sensory perceptions, including the perception of change in temperature, movement and touch. There may be noises, voices, music or other sounds that suggest the presence of supernatural phenomena.

Gremlins

Written by: -

Gremlins are small sometimes winged goblins that delight in causing misery to people with a job to do. They are lower level beings who love to tinker with tools and machinery of all types. Gremlins were first heard of during World War II as creatures responsible for unexplainable mechanical failures and disruptions in aircraft. Although they are mainly invisible to ordinary mortals they can be seen by witches and sometimes by those mortals who possess certain psychic abilities. These creatures are very troublesome in their actions, and, at times, can cause serious harm to those within their area of influence. However, these creatures mainly just annoy humans. Gremlins dwell in areas with lots of machinery that they can tinker with, be it in a home or a factory. If they become a nuisance they can be vanquished by combining one cup of honey, three pinches of flaxseed, two sprigs of fresh rosemary and one-fourth cup of liquefied seaweed.

Also known as a Cudgel and still very popular today, they are kept in homes and cars throughout Ireland for the same purpose). Orde Malorum

Commanding the demonic legions, these demonic generals lead the war against the forces of good. To ascend in the demonic hierarchy, they must capture and conquer those witches who value good and protect the innocent.

The servants of these generals (also known as Level Two Demons) can be identified by the weapons which they carry.

The Lords of War

Written by: -

And thus the Lord of War, his army invincible, swept through the streets leaving nothing but ashes in his wake. The cause would have been lost, had it not been for the appearance of an unlikely savior in the form of a woman. Her face lined with years of wisdom, her hands the fountainhead of a power beyond belief, the Warren Witch. Brianna appeared unarmed before the conquering army. Underestimating his foe, the Lord of War ordered her summarily execution, but his plan was not to be.

Holding aloft her hands, the channel and source of her tremendous energy, Her mind focused, and her will strong, Brianna did what no man, no army could: she sent the Crystal Sword of the Lord of War high into the sky, and hundreds of miles away.

Separated from the weapon that was the source of all his power, the Lord of War was quickly defeated, his armies crushed and his campaign ruined.

Moreover, the fall from grace of this Lord of War was made even worse in the eyes of those who stood in judgement by the instrument of his destruction, a simple witch.

The crystal sword is the symbol of the Lords of War, who are a clan of supernatural warriors. They have been around since time began, starting wars (they've started most of the major wars in history). Once they are done in one place, they are reincarnated in another part of the world to continue their work. They are flesh and blood but as long as they carry their swords they are immune to the weapons of man. They have a strict code of honour that says if one of them is disgraced, he must steal his abilities back. One of the things he has to steal back is the magic of a first-born witch (they're supposed to be the strongest). It requires the strength of three to destroy a Lord of War.

Lost Souls

Lost souls are spirits of the dead unable to move on because of spiritual confusion, such as dying a violent death together. When souls die at once, they will hold each other back, and both good and bad souls will be unable to move on. The souls will remain trapped in a time loop, reliving the day of their death over and over again, unaware of their fate. Although there are spells to allow a witch to see the moment when souls became lost, it is very rare that the lost souls can be saved.

Love spells have been known to backfire on a witch in some cases and cause the subject of the spell to act violent or insane.

If that happens, reverse all of the spells that you cast immediately.

Matthew Tate

Written by: -

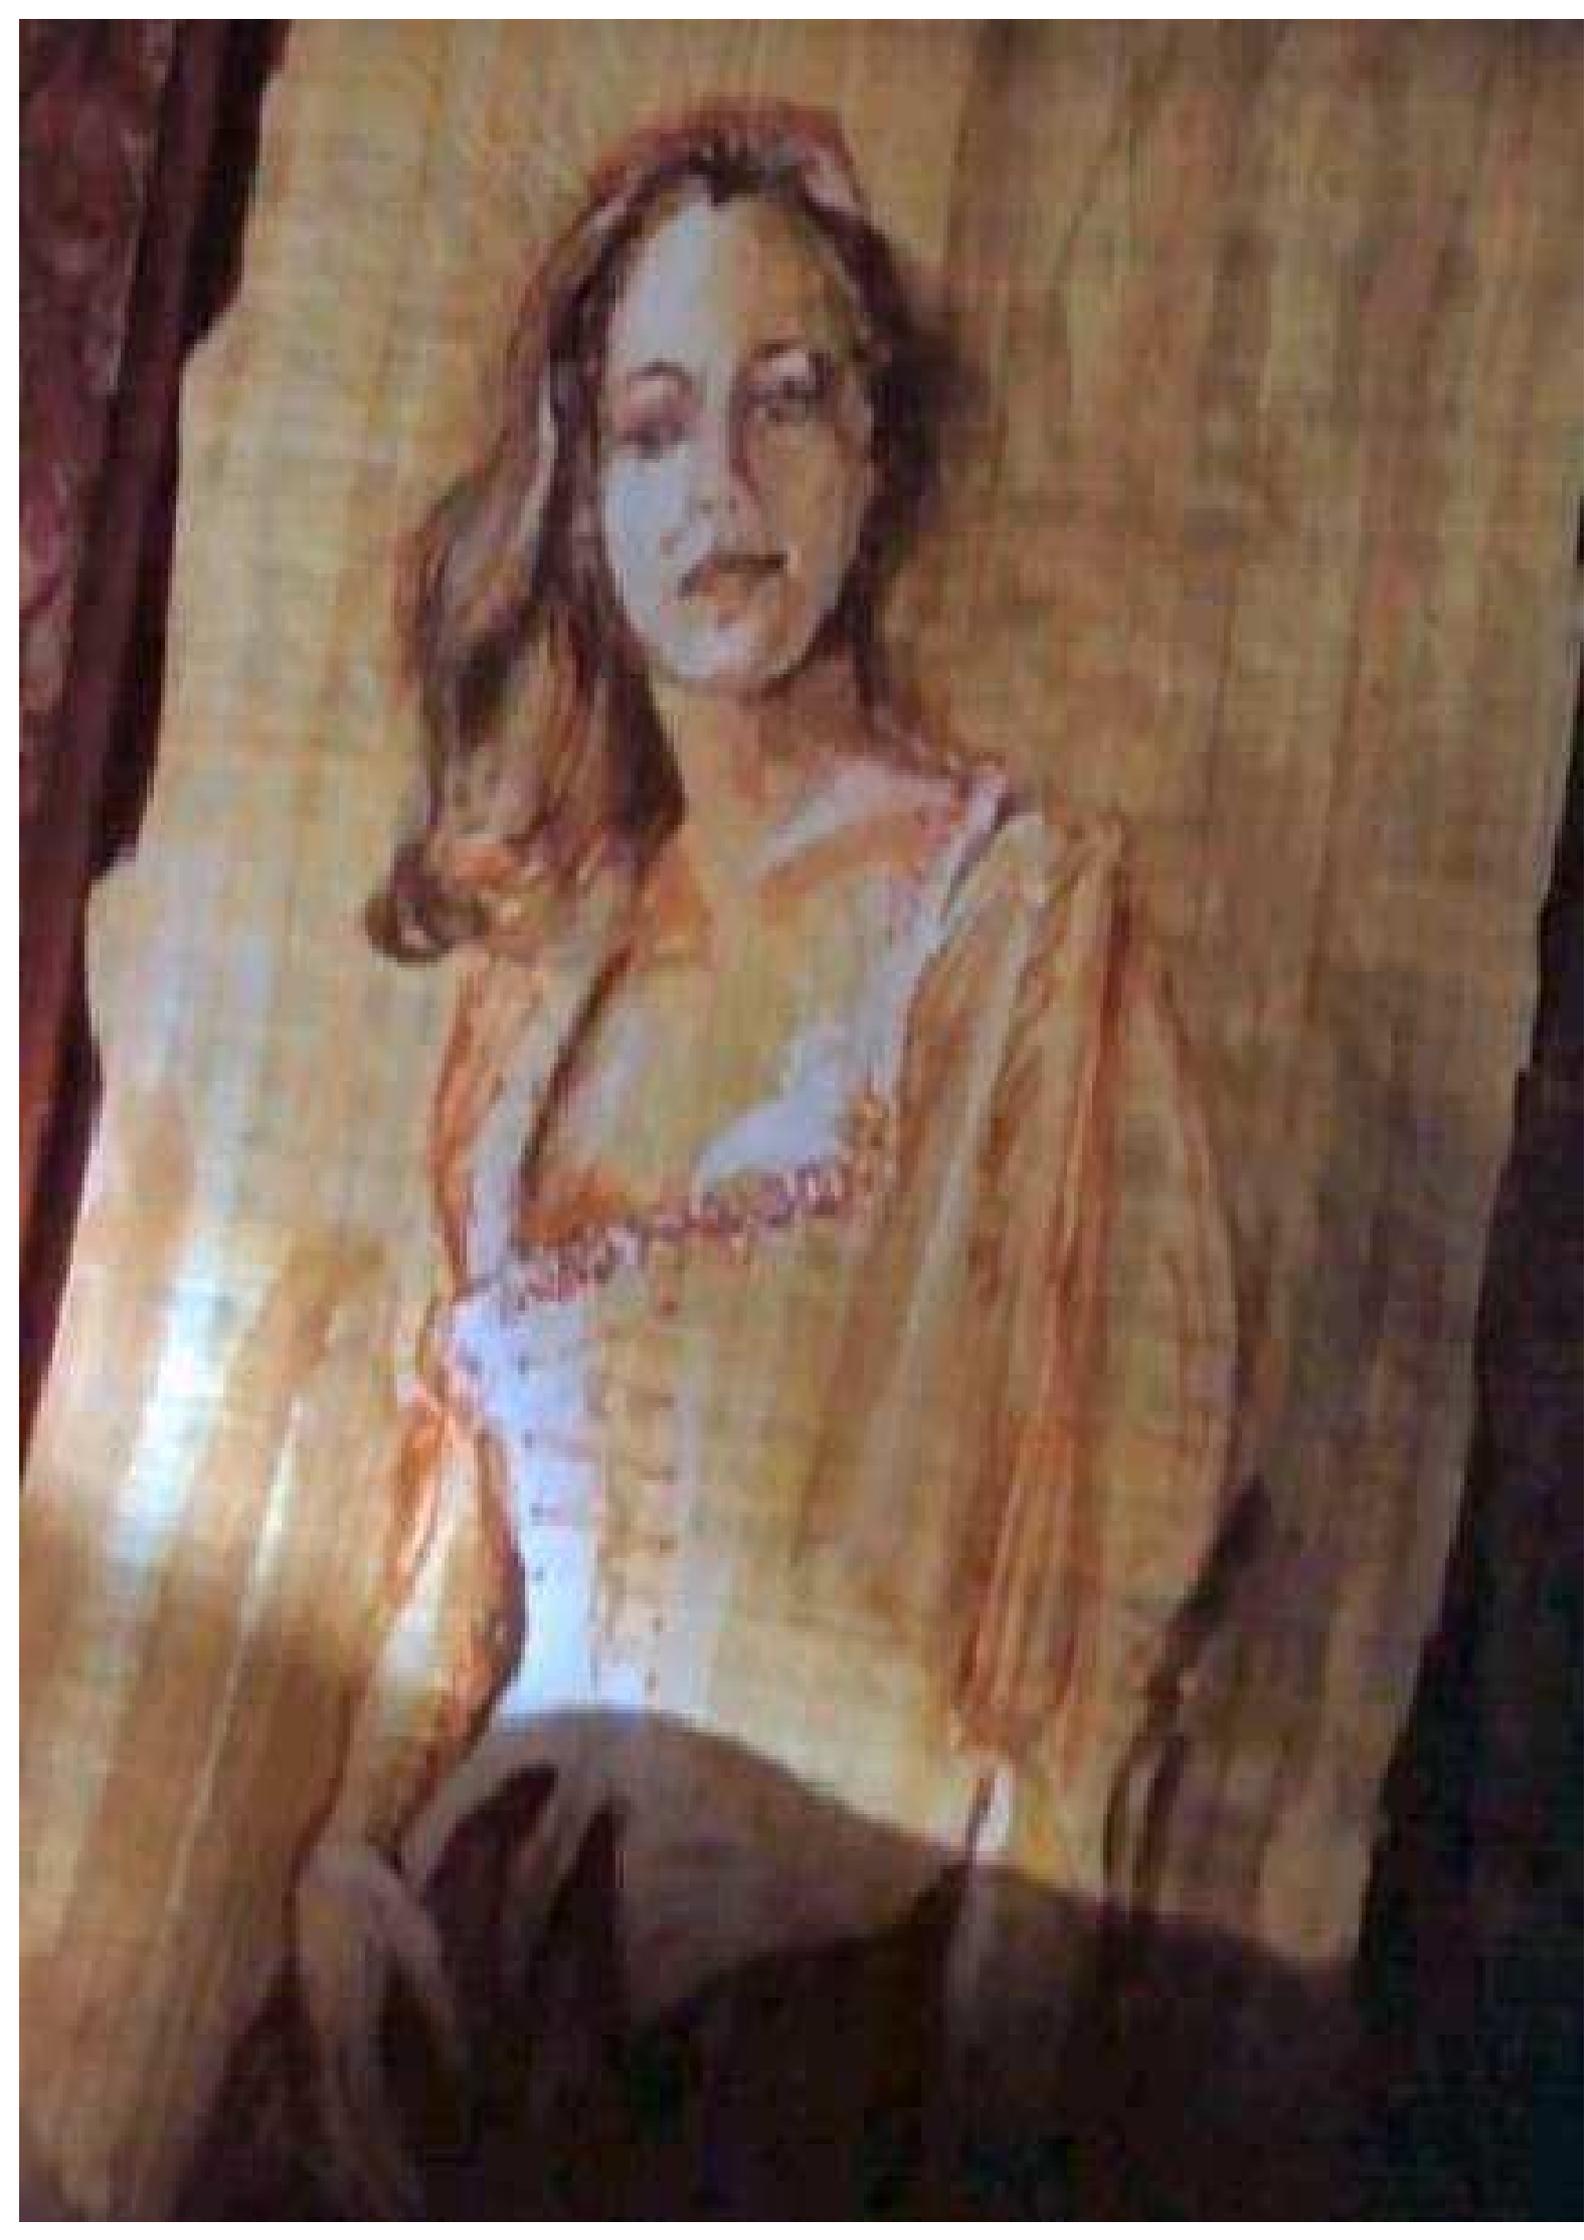

Matthew Tate is a warlock who stole Melinda Warren's love. She cursed him into the pewter heart locket, where he could spend eternity knowing the sting of betrayal. Only a descendant of Melinda could free him. Matthew's gift is to copy the power of a good witch when it's used against him. Once he's copied a power, it has no effect on him. As all warlocks he is able to blink, which means to be at one place and then another in the blink of an eye.

To Put Matthew in a Locket

Written by: Melinda Warren

Cast by: Melinda Warren

Outside of time,
Outside of gain,
Know only sorrow,
Know only pain

Melinda Warren left England and arrived in America in 1654 with her two-year-old daughter.

Her descendants include branches of the Grants, the Morgans, and the Marstons.

Never forgetting her knowledge of witchcraft, Melinda Warren possessed three special powers. The first -- telekinesis, or moving objects using only the power of her mind. The second -- clairvoyance, or the ability to see the future. Her third power: to stop time.

Melinda Warren's powers were discovered when her lover, Matthew Tate, betrayed her to the townspeople. She was tried for witchcraft, found guilty and sentenced to be burned at the stake -- a sentence that had never been given before. The townspeople tied her to a stake in the centre of the village. Her last words were:

"You may kill me but you cannot kill my kind. With each generation, the Warren witches will grow stronger and stronger until at last, three sisters will arrive.

Together these three witches will be the most powerful the world has ever known. They will protectors of the Innocent and known as the Charmed Ones."

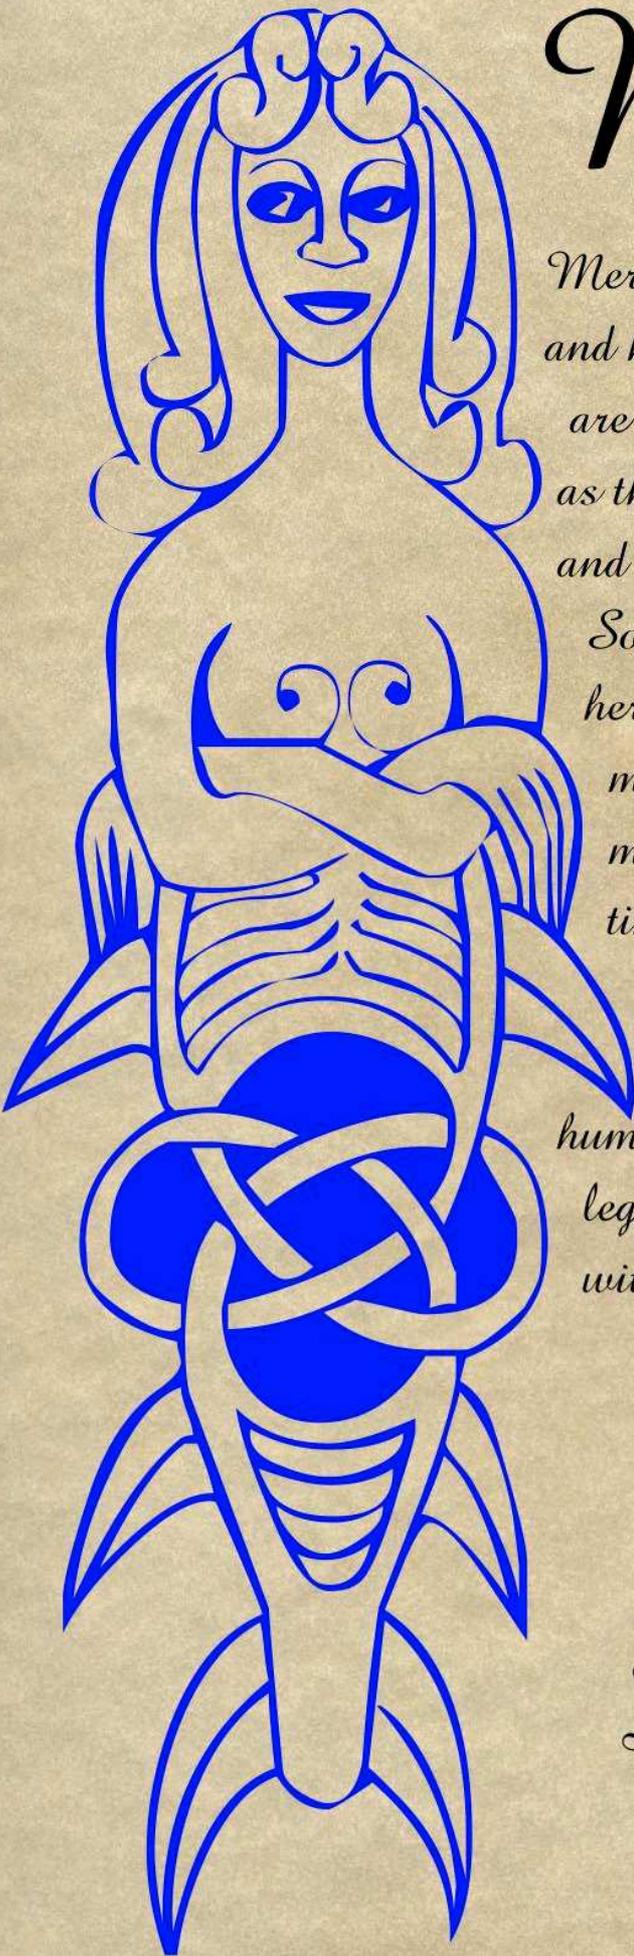

Mermaids

Mermaids are immortal beings, half woman and half fish. They can spend eternity at sea, are cold-blooded, and their hearts are as cold as the water. Mermaids like shiny baubles, and sea shanties are the only songs they know.

Sometimes a mermaid gets lonely and her heart warms as she realises she wants more. They can go to certain sea-living magical creatures to become for a limited time, during which she must obtain a declaration of love from a mortal man. If she succeeds, she will remain human. During this time, she will have legs, but the moment she comes into contact with water, they will become a tail.

To Find a Mermaid, chant:

*Water rise up from the sea
Find the one who fled from thee
Follow where the winds are cold
Then fall tenfold like days of old.*

Mercury Demons

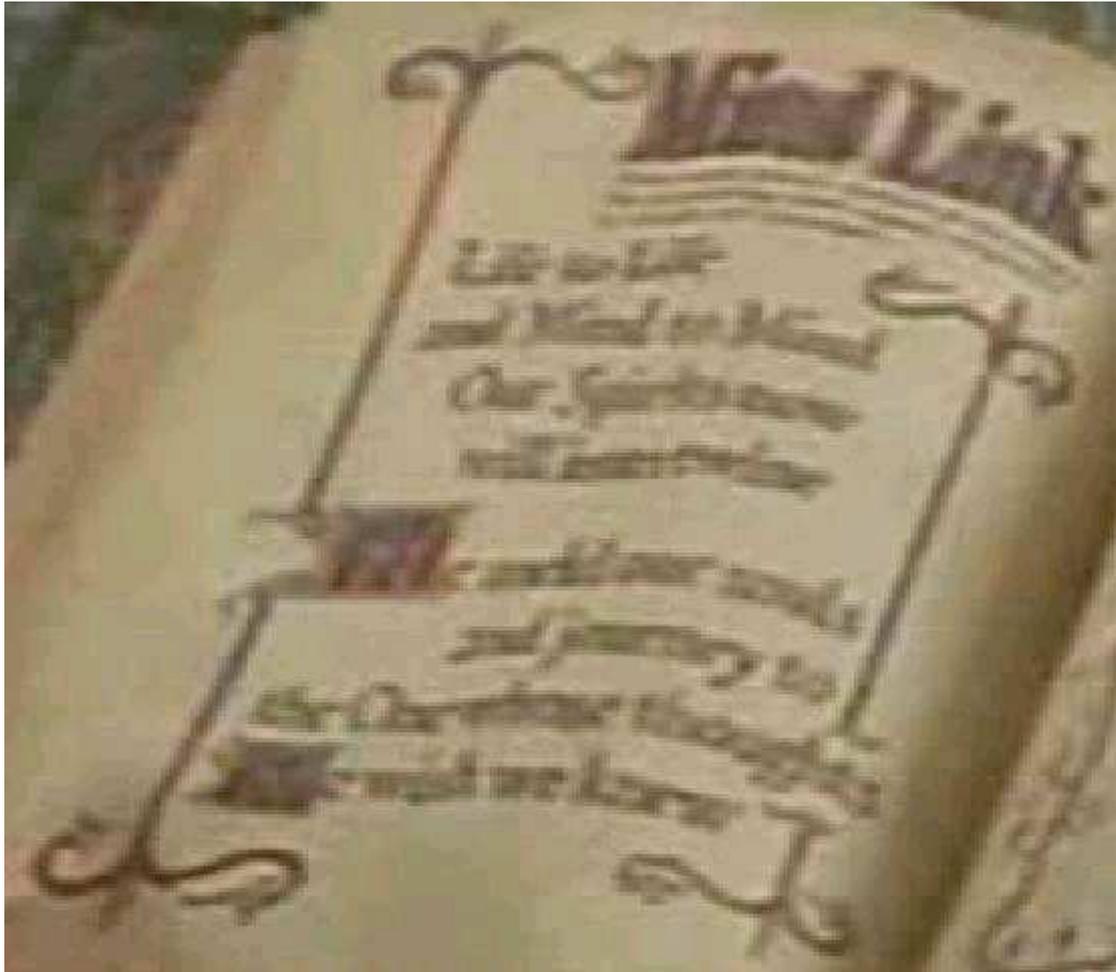

Hatched from eggs that incubate in the eternal flames of Hades, these Demons have the power to fire thermal blasts that can take down lesser demons in one shot.

Millenia ago these demons worked in the service of Mercury, the self proclaimed

Roman God of thievery

In modern times they've evolved into a powerful clan of upper level Demons.

Though this power makes them formidable foes, they can be banquished with the Power of Three.

Nell

Written by: -

In the 1920's a witch named Nell tricked a powerful warlock into a painting with a hidden spell that only his power of x-ray vision could see. a nexus is a geographical point equidistant from the five spiritual elements: earth, fire, water, wood and metal. It is a peace of incredible energy that can be persuaded to be either a source of undeniable good or undeniable evil.

After the earthquake of 1906 in San Francisco, the Halliwell family constructed the manor on a spiritual nexus that, because of the location of the five spiritual elements, is a wiccan one as well. Building the manor on that spot claimed the nexus and its power for good.

Nymphs are tree spirits that protect the forest and eternal spring. They are usually found in groups of three as they cannot hear the call of the Satyr's pipe unless three are dancing together. They usually keep to the forest. They fade into the foliage, cherish and nurture nature and seek the oasis of water at midnight. They celebrate death as renewal of life. Only certain magical creatures can be changed into Nymphs.

On the Place of Magic in the Raising of a Child

Written by: Penny Halliwell

Birth is the finest and greatest experience of motherhood. It is therefore wasteful and ridiculous to use magic to change what is in the nature of a child. Before oneself is the phrase 'favor a child'. The witch must ask herself "am I doing this for the child or am I doing this for myself?"

For the witch who is bothered by the noise of a child and would seek to use magic to bring forth peace and quiet, this tome can only say one thing: sometimes a baby just has to cry.
