AMAZING RESULTS: An eight-week Profillo treatment will give your skin a boost and leave you feeling incredible

FAB TREATMENT WOULD MAKE A REALLY SPECIAL XMAS PRESENT

Beauty buzz

I'M the Indiana Jones of the beauty world this week as I think I may have just stumbled upon the holy grail of skincare.

My mission brought me to Cosmetech in Hollywood where consultant maxillofacial surgeon Gerard Smith introduced me to the Profillo injectable skincare booster.

It is essentially an injectable moisturiser containing 100% synthetic hyaluronic acid injected by a tiny needle into the face, not only boosting and hydrating the skin, but also remodelling the ageing and sagging tissue. I absolutely loved it.

After my skin was cleaned and prepped, he marked five points on my face where he injected the hyaluronic acid, which he explained spreads out under the skin's surface. Trust me the injections were not at all painful.

The acid gel penetrates deep down, providing long-lasting hydration. The Profillo is a skin booster, giving skin that is losing its elasticity and firmness a boost to start the production of collagen. "We all naturally produce and break down hyaluronic acid every day but as we age, the process gets a little sluggish," Gerard explained. The treatment ultimately creates a fresh natural look and softens fine lines.

After the treatment there is a slight redness, but Gerard assured me that would subside after a few hours (which it did). I definitely notice a change every day with my skin and the dewy, healthy, slightly plumper looking glow is much better than anything I have ever been able to achieve with a facial.

I have told all my friends and work colleagues about this treatment as I can't recommend it highly enough.

It would be ideal for a Christmas present (1ml: £300; 2ml: £600) and if my other half is reading this... hint hint.
