

Bloodwise Advanced Communication Masterclass: Supporting haemato-oncology practice

Bloodwise
The blood cancer charity

Only £25

Join Bloodwise at their study day focused on improving vital communication with blood cancer patients, their support network and colleagues within the multidisciplinary team.

This day is for you if you are:

- A CNS, ANP, senior nurse, allied health and social care professional (Band 6 and above) or clinician working in haemato-oncology
- Willing to engage and interact with your colleagues to improve care

Objectives of the day are to:

- Increase awareness of the importance of excellent communication skills and the common communication barriers healthcare professionals face
- Practice skills to improve the quality of clinical communication around treatment decisions, particularly palliative and end of life care and psychological wellbeing
- Increase confidence in managing difficult conversations with patients and carers
- Build on influencing and assertiveness skills to enhance communication between colleagues and teams, such as discussing stopping treatment/death and dying, challenging colleagues and advocating for patients in a multidisciplinary team.
- Practice and incorporate self-care techniques to care for yourself and blood cancer patients

There will be opportunity for you to:

- Gain insight from expert speakers
- Share your experiences and expertise with peers
- Develop practical solutions to take back to your workplace.

An informative and interactive day to attend

Friday 7 February 2020: 9.00am – 5.00pm

networking opportunity with refreshments at the end

Hamilton House Mabledon Place, King's Cross, London WC1H 9BD

The following companies have generously provided funding for this event:

For more details, contact:

- ✉ nursing@bloodwise.org.uk
- ☎ 0207 269 9015
- 🌐 bloodwise.org.uk/masterclass2020

Registered charity 216032
(England & Wales)
SC037529 (Scotland)