a day in the life of... Kew Fete

Kew Fete has become a big event in the local calendar, but what goes on behind the scenes for the big day?

The fete opens at 11am, but we're already on Kew Green by 6.30, to relieve the night security guard, who protects the marquee, and to direct the 115 stallholders, who start to arrive from 7.30am onwards. Each stallholder has been given a space number and map, but many still turn up and say 'Where do I go?'

There are around 13 of us on the committee – all volunteers and most with full-time jobs, as diverse as a BBC journalist, web designer and TV producer. We start work about six months before the fete, having regular – and often Margarita-fuelled! – meetings to ensure that all the things visitors on the day wouldn't even think about are sorted out: licences applied for from the Council, the Victorian funfair (and toilets) booked, the plan of the Green mapped out, stall applications received and accepted or rejected, the Sponsors agreed, publicity via social media and publications scheduled, programme and raffle tickets printed, dog rosettes bought and the stage acts booked. We are a great team, who all get on really well, which means we have a lot of fun!

By 10.30, all the stallholders have to get their vehicles off the Green and there's always a last-minute panic for those who have arrived late and haven't finished setting up.

There's always a slight worry at 11am that no one will turn up, but now in our seventh year, it hasn't happened yet and we get 7-10,000 visitors throughout the day.

As it nears lunchtime, the committee and volunteers are manning the committee tent, mega slide and bungee run, checking the stalls, finding lost children and making sure the Tug of War and Dog Show are on schedule. The Dog Show (pictured bottom) is hugely popular and hundreds throng around the arena as children - and a few competitive adults - show off their pooch: the Best in Show being chosen by the celebrity judge.

The success of the day is always helped by good weather which, of course, you can't predict. One year we had torrential rain and a couple of years ago the winds were so strong a large gazebo took flight. But whatever the weather, people stay and have a great time.

The fete closes at 6pm and by that time we have all walked miles, constantly circling the Green. Once most visitors have left, the stallholders pack up and the marquee and stage are dismantled. By 8pm we are picking up the last of the litter, so we leave the Green as pristine as we found it. Then it's off to the pub for a very large drink!

MIDSUMMER FETE

A great day for family and friends on Kew Green
Saturday 17 June: 11am-6pm

Kew Midsummer Fete is now a major event in the local calendar. It's a great day out and there's plenty to keep family and friends occupied throughout the day. Each year the fete is packed from the moment it opens at 11am, to close of play at 6pm.

So what can you look forward to this year?

Fabulous stalls

There will be around 90 outside stalls, selling a wonderful range of goodies from paintings to plants; scarves to scones, jewellery to jams and cards to cushions. Inside the marquee there will be a further 25 stalls, full of exquisite original items including furniture, silver jewellery, stationery, frames, candles, bags and clothing.

The food court

We have an even wider range of delicacies at The Food Court this year - more than enough to suit every taste. Sammy's Spanish Town Kitchen will return, with his ever popular Caribbean cuisine, the Just Nice Paella stall, pulled's free range pulled meats, fresh falafel, pizza, hot dogs and, of course, the traditional tea tent, where you can sit down and relax with a cuppa and a cream cake. As usual, there will be a Pimms bar, while Fuller's will be providing the beer.

Great attractions

Travelling showman Reuben Bond will once again be setting up his historic fairground rides including his colourful Carousel of gallopers, the Flying Chair-O-Plane for the fearless, the tots' Merry-Go-Round of vintage wheelies and the high-in-the-sky Old-Time Wheel. Plus there will be the ever popular bungee run and mega slide.
Aspiring and seasoned footballers can take aim at the very popular 'Beat the Goalie' run by local club, Kew Park Rangers.

Stage stars

There will be all-day entertainment on the stage, with great acts such as Ukwele, Yes Brazil, Maracatu Drums, as well as street dance, karate demonstrations and Kew's own Darell School Choir.

Dog days

The Dog Show always draws huge crowds and local residents, who are keen to show off their favourite member of the family. There are seven rosette-winning categories: Best Puppy, Best Old Dog, Best Pedigree, Best Cross-Breed, Best Rescue Dog, Best Trick and Dog Most Like Its Owner. The Best In Show will be chosen from those winners. Once again, a celebrity will kindly be judging this year's winners! Still currently a secret, you'll find out on the day who will be picking our champions. Entry to each category is £3 and registration is on the day, 12-2.30pm. The show starts at 3pm.

Tug of War

The Tug of War Tournament is a great event to watch, with both children and adults joining in the tugging fun. You can put a team of six together in advance (enter online at kewfete.org) or just turn up on the day.

Great raffle prizes

We have some amazing raffle prizes, including a Go Pro Hero 5, theatre tickets, vouchers for local restaurants, a one night stay in a Fuller's pub/hotel, a one night glamping break, a photography session worth £250 and much more. Tickets will be on sale on the day but you can buy them beforehand at shops around Kew Parade.
Thank you to all the amazing local businesses which have donated prizes.

Calling all local charities

All profits from Kew Midsummer Fete are donated to local good causes and nearly £96,000 has been shared out since we started in 2010. If you are a local charity and would like to apply for a donation, complete the application form (which can be downloaded from the website) and return it by 6 June.

Kew Fête 2017

Saturday June 17 will see Kew Green once more filled with tents and stalls, a fun fair and a stage for the music, dancing and demonstrations that will entertain the crowds from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the annual Kew Fête. This long-standing event has taken place around Midsummer's Day since 2010 and, on the facing page, you can read a brief history by local historian, John Moses, which gives a fascinating insight into different fairs on Kew Green over the years.

There will be over a hundred stalls selling such items as hand-crafted gifts, artwork, adult and children's clothes and jewellery. For the Foodies the Food Court will cater for all tastes representing cuisines from all over the world from Jamaica to Ethiopia as well as such favourites as pizzas, burgers and wraps and not forgetting the ever-popular Tea Tent.

The traditional Victorian Fairground has attractions for the whole family, including a Ferris Wheel, Carousel and Helter Skelter and young children will also enjoy the Mobile Farm and the Megaslide and Bungee Run. A big draw is always the Dog Show with such classes as Best Puppy, Best Old Dog and Dog looking most like its Owner! This show is judged by Richmond Vets with the help of local celebrities, last year being stars from the popular TV series, 'The Durrells'. There is even a Tug-of-War with teams from all-comers such as local rugby clubs and pubs taking part.

This is a community event run by local people to support local charities which this year is set to see the total raised since 2010 top £100,000. Charities supporting cancer patients, providing help for the young unemployed, local elderly care, mental health support, assistance for young mums, equipment for the Scouts and local foodbanks are amongst those who have received assistance thanks to funds raised at Kew Fete. Michael Glazebrook, Chairman of the Kew Midsummer Fete Committee, is delighted at the number of charities who have benefitted over the years: "Kew Fete is a fantastic example of real community spirit combining great fun with fund-raising. Credit should go to our loyal volunteers, sponsors and supporters who continue to help us build on its success each year. Exceeding £100,000 as we will this year is a milestone for us and we look forward to another great day on June 17 and the support it will provide for causes local people care about."

This popular family day out held on Kew Green is now a key event of the summer (rated one of 'The 101 Best Things to Do in London with Kids' in Time Out) and continues to attract thousands of visitors with over a hundred stallholders keen to participate.

So do come along to see for yourselves, or maybe even take part

The History of Fairs on Kew Green - John Moses

When you visit the Midsummer Fete on Kew Green you are continuing a tradition that goes back hundreds of years. The attractions of fairs in the past were not so different from today; the chance to meet friends, enjoy live music, browse market stalls, compete in games and eat delicious food.

Some, however, were more riotous. In 1894 Chancellor, in his famous History of Richmond, wrote "Kew Green was formerly a fair ground. Fairs are picturesque, but noisy and Kew Green being no exception to the rule, it was abolished by the Vestry as a nuisance on 18th May 1781."

It didn't last though. Fairs on the Green were revived, although probably in a more sedate form. On July 2, 1863, the Duchess of Cambridge had held a special fete at Cambridge Cottage which was attended by several members of the Royal family and the aristocracy, but this was really a private event. Very shortly after Chancellor wrote his book, the Kew Fair for all the local community was re-established and held on Easter Monday. This lasted until the Second World War.

George Cassidy described in Kew as It Was, how the owners of the various stalls, who lived in Brentford were not allowed, to cross Kew Bridge, under the local by-laws, until the day of the fair. The stallholders had to wait on the Middlesex side of the bridge until a signal was given allowing them to cross to the Surrey side. The stallholders then ran down the slope of Kew Bridge onto Kew Green to get the best pitches for their stalls.

On July 22, 1914, an Old English Fayre was held on Kew Green where 300 local children wore costumes representing different periods. You can see in the photograph above the children in fancy dress lining up to be judged. There was Morris dancing by pupils from the Kings School, Kew (now Queen's C of E School) and there was a tug of war between teams from Richmond police and Kew Gardens police, which Richmond Police won. In the evening the London Rifle Volunteers held a torchlight tattoo. From reading the local press there appeared to have been a total unawareness of the coming war, but sadly, within two weeks the First World War had started.

Those visiting the Easter Fair, as well as visitors to the Royal Botanical Gardens, had plenty of opportunity to stop for tea, because, until 1939, many of the beautiful Georgian houses around Kew Green were tea houses. There was also a fair ground just by Kew Bridge where Bush Road is today. This lasted until the 1960s. The fairground was once the scene of a murder. The Times of June 25, 1936, reported that on June 10, a 16-year-old boy shot the night watchman dead. There appeared to be no motive for this crime as no money or valuables were taken.

The present series of Kew Fêtes were first held in 2010 and have been held every year since and have proved to be very popular. In 2014 about 10,000 people visited Kew Fête.

Kew Fete - voted one of the '101 Best Things to do in London with Kids' by Time Out - returns this month.

The Kew Fete will be celebrating the £100,000 raised for local causes, since starting in 2010, at the annual day on Kew Green on Saturday, June 17.

A fun-family day out, the summer event attracts thousands of visitors each year and more than a hundred stallholders who want to participate.

Michael Glazebrook, chairman of the Kew Midsummer Fete committee, said: "Kew Fete is a fantastic example of real community spirit combining great fun with fund-raising.

"Credit should go to our loyal volunteers, sponsors and supporters who continue to help us build on its success each year."

The Green will be packed with a host of attractions including a traditional Victorian fairground, a stage featuring music and dance performances, a lucky dip and much more.

Proud dog owners can parade their pooches at the dog show and friends can team up to take part in the popular tug of war before heading to the food court and tea tent.

The fete supports charities helping cancer patients, providing help for the young unemployed, local elderly care, mental health support, assistance for young mums, equipment for the Scouts and many others.

"Exceeding £100,000 as we will this year is a milestone for us and we look forward to another great day on Saturday 17 June and the support it will provide for causes local people care about."

Sophie Raworth, BBC journalist and broadcaster, has been announced as the celebrity judge for the hugely popular friendly Dog Show at the fete.

Sophie recently traced her ancestors on the programme 'Who Do You Think You Are?' and discovered her great-grandfather once worked at Kew Gardens so how apt that she is supporting this special Kew event for the second time.

Her job will be tough with a wonderful array of dogs to choose from and several categories to judge including best puppy, best old dog and dog with best trick!

WHAT'S ON IN RICHMOND

Welcome to Richmond upon Thames, a jewel in London's crown. Probably London's most attractive borough, it has long been a favourite retreat for Royalty and the rich and famous.

The River Thames runs for over 10 miles through the borough, linking Hampton Court Palace, Richmond Town Centre and Kew Gardens with London. Richmond rivals anywhere in London with its beautiful Royal Parks and open spaces, historic houses, theatres, museums, galleries, exhibits and town centres bursting with life.

Richmond is situated 10 miles southwest of Central London and can be accessed by tube, train, bus, car, bike, boat and foot. With easy access and a world to see and do, Richmond upon Thames provides the perfect getaway.

When the sun's out, there are few more idyllic village settings in London than Kew, which hosts its annual midsummer fete in June. Kew Green is a sight to behold even on a regular weekend, when local cricket teams leisurely battle it out on the square as people watch from the sidelines, a pint in hand. But for the Kew Fete, the whole place comes to life as 7,000 people or so flock to the green to take in the vintage fairground, live music, dog show and 100 stalls selling everything from cards to chutney. There are some delisious offerings

Have Some Fun in the Sun at Kew Midsummer Fete

By Chris K - June 15, 2017

The weather forecast couldn't be better this weekend so why not enjoy the sunshine at Kew Midsummer Fete on Saturday.

The annual fete, now in its 8th year, is held on Kew Green as this year is set to celebrate raising £100,000 for a wide range of local charities since it started.

Featuring a Victorian Fairground, Mobile Farm and other fun activities for kids, it's no wonder that the fete has been rated in Time Out as one of the '101 Best Things To Do in London With Kids'.

The fete attracts over 100 stalls with several newcomers offering a wonderful array of goods from handcrafted ceramics, glassware and woodwork to photography, art, home accessories, adult and children's clothes, jewellery and much more.

Of course no midsummer fete would be complete without a Dog Show and Kew is no exception with prizes for Best Puppy, Best Old Dog and Best Trick. Last year's was judged by local vets and stars from ITV's The Durrells.

A wide variety of cuisines will be available to choose from for lunch or a snack, from Jamaican and Ethiopian to burgers and wraps. The popular Tea Tent returns with cakes and goodies from Pomegranate Kitchen.

As well all the food, stalls and funfair there will be some great musical acts on The Stage, from local choirs and Ukulele bands to Maracatu drums and Rock n' Roll.

Highlight of the afternoon is the Tug of War competition featuring teams of all ages who will be competing to gain the crown from the current holders, the formidable Fete Committee Ladies.

Michael Glazebrook, Chairman of the Kew Midsummer Fete Committee is delighted at the number of charities which have benefitted over the years:

*"Kew Fete is a fantastic example of real community spirit combining great fun with fundraising. The fete runs from 11am to 6pm on Saturday June 17 on Kew Green. Entry is free and more information can be found at www.kewfete.org

Kew Green
http://www.kew.org/visit/england

Kew Midsummer Fete on Saturday 17 June is a much-loved local highlight, offering a fun family day out in the lovely setting of Kew Green. Entry is free and the fete is run entirely by volunteers; all the operating profits are donated to local charities – since it started in 2010, over £95,000 has been given away to a total of 30 good causes in the Richmond & Kew. Come along to enjoy the traditional Victorian funfair, fun inflatables, the Tug of War, friendly Dog Show with celebrity judge and live entertainment all day on The Stage. There are over 114 great stalls selling jewellery, clothes, homewares, vintage goods and food including the specialist craft tent. With a wide range of cuisines from Jamaican to Ethiopian, pizza to burgers, wraps to falafel there's also a Tea Tent and Fuller's beer on tap. The lucky dip is always a hit and the charity raffle has a top prize of a GoPro camera along with many others – see www.kewfete.org

For those who enjoyed Green Days another great charity fund-raising fete takes place this Saturday on Kew Green. The Kew Midsummer Fete is free to enter and runs from 11am til 6pm. Main attractions are a Victorian fun fair, inflatables, mobile farm, over 114 stalls and a craft marquee, tug of war, friendly Dog Show (with celebrity judge, BBC Journalist Sophie Raworth) beer and tea tents, a varied food court, charity raffle and lucky dip plus live music and local dance and karate performances. A great family day out raising funds for 12 local charities.
