Brain Bullies Card Game

Ages 6+. Help children begin to realize the most common cognitive distortions that are present in thinking. The goal then is to form a means of discussing, disputing, and readdressing these distortions in a more productive manner for each child, as well as for the children of the group as a whole.

In this game, discussions will be broached of some of the most common distortions including: not being fair, black and white thinking, jumping to conclusions, blaming others, personalization and needing to always be right.

For 2-10 players, with the guidance of a licensed mental health professional or school counselor.

get.a.voice!

Be a leader. Make a difference. Get a voice.

get.a.voice® helps our youth become more conscious of and take responsibility for their thoughts, words, and ultimately, actions. With extensive input from teachers, administrators, counselors, support staff, students, and parents across 17 schools in New York State, get.a.voice® evolved to become a language-based approach to:

- Decrease name-calling and bullying
- Increase how often students and adults felt safe, valued, respected, and connected
- Achieve these goals in ways that saved time for teachers and other educators

Brain Bullies Bingo

Ages 6+. The purpose of this game is to have children begin to realize the most common cognitive distortions that are present in thinking. The goal then is to begin a means of discussing, disputing, and readdressing these distortions in a more productive manner for each child as well as for the children of the group as a whole. This game can be used as a companion to the Brain Bullies Book and can be used with the Brain Bullies Card Game by the same author, or can be used independently. For 2-16 players.

Brain Bullies Card Game

Ages 6+. Help children begin to realize the most common cognitive distortions that are present in thinking. The goal then is to form a means of discussing, disputing, and readdressing these distortions in a more productive manner for each child, as well as for the children of the group as a whole.

In this game, discussions will be broached of some of the most common distortions including: not being fair, black and white thinking, jumping to conclusions, blaming others, personalization and needing to always be right.

For 2-10 players, with the guidance of a licensed mental health professional or school counselor.

Brain Bullies Card Game • Item #5070 • $27.95

Brain Bullies Toss & Talk

Ages 6+. This therapeutic game is an excellent addition to group counseling, classroom SEL lessons, or as a group icebreaker. Develop topics, discussions, and interventions regarding child-specific cognitive-behavioral techniques and social-emotional learning interventions in an engaging, whimsical, and interactive format that will keep students engaged while thinking and learning. For 2 or more players. 5" ball. Ball is deflated and requires a standard pump to inflate (pump not included).
