Night of Ambition 2019

We are excited to announce that, for the first time since the event's conception, Night of Ambition 2019 will be held at the iconic Natural History Museum in London on Thursday 28 November 2019.

Over 400 guests will enjoy live entertainment, a silent and live auction offering unique lots and a truly remarkable dining experience in the Hintze Hall beneath the skeleton of the blue whale, Hope.

Guests will also have the opportunity to pledge their support directly to our national employability campaign, Employ Autism. It's a programme through which we intend to unlock a different future for children and young people with autism, giving them a chance of a happy, independent adulthood, and making a meaningful contribution to their community.

The award-winning partnership between TalkTalk and Ambitious about Autism has raised over £4m to date, helping to improve the lives of children and young people with autism across the UK.

In addition to taking a table, there are many ways in which you can support the event - from placing an advert in the event brochure to becoming a sponsor. For more information, please read on or contact Imogen Wade on:

Who are Ambitious about Autism?

We are the national charity for children and young people with autism, providing services, raising awareness and campaigning for change.

Our young people are at the heart of everything we do and it's our ambition to make the ordinary possible for all of them.

- 1 in 100 people in the UK are autistic
- Fewer than 1 in 4 autistic young people access education or training beyond school
- Only 19% of young people with autism say they have had good careers advice
- 16% of autistic adults are currently in full-time paid employment
