Things to consider when buying Windows, Doors and Conservatories

Do you need planning permission?

When installing a conservatory, planning permission isn't usually required. You're only likely to need planning permission if your conservatory will cover more than half the area surrounding your house, or if the conservatory roof is higher than the highest point of your existing property.

You must also obtain planning permission before you build on raised platforms such as verandas and balconies.

Energy Ratings

The Window Energy Rating system tells you how energy efficient a window is. Windows are given an energy rating on a scale of G to A+, with A+ windows being the most energy-efficient.

If saving money on energy bills is important to you and you want a warmer home then it goes without saying that you should try and buy the most energy efficient windows you can afford.

Reputation

As always, buy from a reputable business. There are lots of great companies out there but others that are less reputable.

Don't be afraid to check out our reviews online and in our app account to see what our past customers have to say about us.

Use BM Trada, Certass and Fensa registered glaziers.

It's a good idea to choose a double glazing installer that is registered with a competent person scheme, such as BM Trada, Certass or Fensa. Membership means that companies can self-certify their work complies with building regulations. It also means the work is covered by an insurance-backed guarantee if it's not compliant and the company goes bust.

In England and Wales, new and replacement windows must meet a certain level of energy efficiency. You need to get a certificate to show your windows comply with these regulations. An installer registered with one of the self-certification schemes will issue this certificate for you - otherwise your council will need to come and check the work.
