

A million meals ... ON TIME

With school meal service costs under close scrutiny and local authority fiscal belts being tightened, we look at how independent supplier Gate Ventures is helping caterers by delivering a million meals a year

Tevin Tobun (inset) heads Gate Ventures: A company with ambitious plans for the future and a fleet of vans on the road and ready to go

Gate Ventures, the facilities services company whose meal transportation division is one of the UK's leading for hot and chilled deliveries to the education sector, handles more than one million meals a year to schools that do not have sufficient facilities for onsite operations.

And now, with more than 10 years' experience of working with schools and educational establishments, the company has become the go-to service provider of school meal delivery services.

Working alongside a network of the UK's leading contract caterers, Gate Ventures serves large London boroughs including Westminster Council, Brent, Harrow, Lambeth, Waltham Forest and Wandsworth local authorities.

The company works with clients to service often complex requirements across numerous sites with tight time constraints.

Managing director Tevin Tobun, said: "Unlike any other meal distribution sector, school meals is the one shrouded in the most stringent regulation. Quality of service from health, safety and hygiene through to time management, is paramount in ensuring a seamless, high quality service day in day out.

"While some believe that a regular taxi or courier service will suffice, we know that this is a specialised service

Sun-ripened tomato, basil
A perfect base for your