

We design the program around your training needs. Select a half day, one day or a two day workshop then we take care of everything.

What's Included:

For multi day programs at the end of the days training you will be taken to your accommodation in the beautiful Yarramalong Valley where your team will have the chance to catch up, eat amazing food and enjoy some drinks. Keep on the look out for the kangaroos and other wildlife while you socialize the night away.

Our challenges will require that your team places trust in one another for assistance as you go through the exercises. This isn't your classic trust fall as they will be put through various experiences and challenges to learn more indepth how to build real trust and improved communication.

Your team will also learn about energy and how it has become a powerful, yet invisible communication skill. Our training places obstacles in front of your team that at first seem impossible and then become achievable with support from others.

Your corporate training experiential learning retreat also includes lunch and afternoon refreshments. We close the day with a question and answer session to ensure your team has fully internalized the training and we've met your learning objectives. For multi days a choice of accomodation (including Glamping) dinner and drinks are also provided.

Corporate Team-Building and Leadership Training Reimagined

Horses Teach Us

Our unique training programs puts you inside the horses' mind to learn more about trust, energy, relationships, emotions, communication and so much more!

Staff are challenged to perform at peak levels requiring strong communication and collaboration.

Each member must be self-aware of how their energy, actions and attitudes influence others while also being aware of how others are feeling.

Sometime, in business we tend to believe that we have to leave our feelings and empathy at home. Many people see leaders as people of power and feel the need to exhibit that power with a firm hand.

In reality, the emotions that we believe are hidden are the very emotions that our coworkers pick up on. Horses will know the minute you enter the yard how you're feeling and will adapt their behavior accordingly...without a word being said, just like staff do in the workplace.

These gentle (1 Tonne) giants help staff members of all levels within your company experience what it's like to build true trust and relationships in the workplace, by learning to adapt their own energy, behaviour and emotions happily. A corporate retreat with us will have your staff feeling connected, motivated and knowing how to perform at their peak.

Our customers say it's not only an enlightening experience, but a fun and engaging day out of the office where staff really learn in a remarkable setting.

Truly humbled to spend time learning, talking and being inspired. The day thoroughly met and exceeded my expectations. It's not often you book somewhere that will change your life.
Leanne.

I had never been near a horse or animals, but the way you explained human interaction and our behaviour, it all made sense. My team loved the day we had with you and we will be back again.
Thank you. Michael.

The Ultimate Glamping Experience

No Boring Training

Learning about how to act and react in a corporate setting from a horse might seem strange. However, horses serve as strong educators for corporate behavior because they are animals of prey.

Their communication with other members of the herd is crucial to their survival. Because horses are preyed upon by other animals in the wild, they have a keen sense of energy, emotions, behaviors and body language that humans don't.

By interacting with our Clydesdale horses, your team will learn how to:

Manage and improve their emotions.

Communicate effectively with other team members

Challenge themselves in uncomfortable situations

Act in a consistent and clear manner

Learn how to stay calm and relaxed under pressure and much more.

Action Packed Training
Fun Environment
Safe and Secure
Non Judgemental
Results Driven

"Nature requires honesty and integrity to function. Horses embody this honesty and integrity in their perceptive abilities and how they work as a herd."

Horses will follow humans who they believe are strong leaders but won't heed those who are weak or whose body language indicates fear or an inability to lead.

Positions and job titles mean nothing to horses. In these workshops these horses will teach you advanced skills necessary to be a true leader and the results amaze people.
