BUSINESS PARK IN A BUSINESS CITY

Indore - The next growth centre of India

Indore is the epicenter of growth in Central India, thanks to its geographic location, excellent connectivity, demographic profile, availability of skilled manpower and the presence of reputed institutes such as IIM, IIT, Devi Ahilya University and The Army War College (formerly known as The College of Combat), Mhow.

Factors that work for Indore:

- The suburbs of Indore - Dewas & Pithampur, are the largest industrial towns of India with a large number of automobile, ancillary and pharmaceutical industries. Owing to this, these twin suburbs are also known as 'The Detroit of Central India.'
- The largest business centre of Central India
- Retail destination of Central India
- Largest educational centre of Madhya Pradesh and the only Indian city to have both, an IIT and an IIM (IIM is also being set-up)
- Favoured test market for industries, owing to the cosmopolitan nature of its population
- Centre for commodities trading in Central India
- Regional stronghold in wholesale garment and electrical business
