Materials

teak

At Faraway Furniture we carefully select the materials used in the manufacture of our furniture. We source only the best quality grade A heartwood for our products. Our teak has a straight consistent close grain which is free of knots and defects. Our even honey coloured teak is then kiln dried to a low 8-12% moisture content level so that no warping or cracking occurs in your teak garden furniture. Each timber component is then precision cut for a perfect fit and finely sanded three times to bring out the soft, smooth, shine of the natural oils within the teak. We use marine grade brass and stainless steel components in all our furniture to ensure longevity.

Our teak is responsibly harvested from legal, reputable and sustainable plantations.

stainless steel

Highest quality grade 304 stainless steel is used to add a contemporary feel to our outdoor furniture. Grade 316 Stainless Steel is also available for coastal conditions.

weave

All our woven furniture is made from the highest quality all weather fibres called Viro®, which are specifically designed and engineered for outdoor use. Viro® is natural to the touch, tear resistant, extremely durable, weather resistant and UV stabilised.

slings

Innovative Batyline®, a finely woven PVC coated polyester fibre is used to produce comfortable and durable garden furniture.

We work hard to produce our furniture and are proud to offer a full and extensive 10 year guarantee on all of our teak garden sets.

care and advice

Teak requires very little maintenance. We advise using a mild soap and soft cloth to clean your furniture. No harsh substances should be used as this could strip the teak of its natural oils.

Open to the elements such as rain and sun teak will naturally age to a graceful silver – grey colour. For extra protection against stains we recommend the use of a good quality teak sealer such as Teak wonder.
